UN To Meet To Plan For Conference

Informants Believe Khrushchev To OK Talks About Aug. 11

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The Security Council is expected to meet next week to build the foundation for a U.N. summit meeting on the Middle East crisis. This was reported by Western sources Friday as President Eisenhower sent a note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev stressing that summit arrangements must be left to the Council. These informants express belief Khrushchev will accept and the summit meeting can open at U.N. headquarters in New York Aug. 11. The 11-nation Council will be summoned to consider details as to participants, the place and the opening day for the meeting. Khrushchev proposed that in addition to members of the Council, Prime Minister Nehru of India and the governments of interested Arab states be brought into the discussions.

Doesn't Specify
He did not specify the Arab governments, but a Soviet U.N. source said he believed they would be Lebanon, Jordan, and President Nasser's United Arab Republic. They are the same three Arab nations invited to take part in previous Council Middle East debate. Iraq would be present as a member of the Council.

There had been speculation that the Soviets might have in mind a conference of all Arab states. U.N. diplomats feel this would make the conference cumbersome. It might also lead to additional complications, such as a demand from Israel for participation, or from Turkey, Iran and Pakistan—members of the Baghdad Pact.

Eisenhower said he was instructing Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to consult with other Council members on the desirability of a summit meeting.

No Opposition
The Council is expected to be called into session at the conclusion of such consultations. There has been no opposition expressed here by Council members to a summit meeting.

U.N. diplomats said the Council would make arrangements for private meetings of the big powers and possibly India. These could be held outside New York, but the most likely place appeared to be the private offices of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld on the 38th floor of the U.N. secret building.

The big powers would agree in advance that no voting take place. They would issue a summary in the way of a report to the full Council at the end of their deliberations. The idea is to avoid the big power veto—used by the Soviet Union on 85 previous occasions.

Winds Prevent Balloon Trip

CROSBY, Minn. (UPI) — High winds prevented the launching of a Navy stratosphere balloon for the third straight day Friday. Scientists hoped to send it into space early Saturday. Navy spokesmen said they would try for a 3 a. m. e.d.t. launching of the giant balloon from an open mine near Crosby. Two veteran spacemen, Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, 38, and Ret. Cmdr. M. Lee Lewis, 45, waited to make the trip along with 5,000 insects. The balloonists hoped to climb to 84,000 feet, almost 16 miles above the earth, in a sealed gondola which also contained the insects of many varieties. They planned to study the effects of high altitudes upon both themselves and the insects. The launching had been set for 4 p.m. (EDT) Friday after two previous delays. Winds in the area were higher than the five miles per hour considered safe for the ascension.

Fighting Flares Up In Lebanon

14 Killed In Clash With Rebels; U.S. Forces Said Not Involved

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The bloodiest fighting since a U. S. Marine peace force landed here nearly two weeks ago erupted Friday night between opposition and government forces.

REBEL LEADER—Lebanese rebel leader Saeb Salem said yesterday rebels will not permit presidential elections as long as President Camille Chamoun is in power and foreign troops are in Lebanon. (AP Photofax)

Unofficial reports said 14 persons were killed and another dozen wounded in the new violence. The incident did not in any way involve U. S. forces here, which now are 10,000 strong.

The fighting took place within a confined area near Al Khayad Hill, the highest in the city, among closely grouped buildings. Snipers and government troops engaged in shooting duels from neighboring roofs. The hill is held by the rebels.

The battle, strangely, did not attract much notice in Beirut despite the number of casualties and the possible significance of the flare-up. The people of Beirut appear inured to the sound of firing these days.

U. S., U. N. Officials Meet
Top American and Lebanese military and civil leaders conferred for almost three hours Friday on the role of American forces in Lebanon. Shortly afterwards, United States and United Nations officials had their first formal contact in a high-level conference.

The two conferences may mean much in future decisions on the mission and duties of American forces in Lebanon. The last of these forces flew into Beirut International Airport Friday night aboard the Globemaster shuttle run from Germany via Adana, Turkey.

They brought the American land force total to 10,000, of which roughly 4,000 are Army paratroopers and support troops and 6,000 are Marines. In addition some 60 ships of the U.S. Sixth Fleet are stationed off the Lebanese coast. And an Air Force fighter-bomber composite striking force is in Adana protecting the operation's northern flank.

Coalition Government Considered
Lebanese President Camille Chamoun was reported reliably Friday night to be considering creation of a broad coalition government to end the continuing internal crisis.

Diplomatic sources said Chamoun has told U.S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert D. Murphy that he wants parliament to reach agreement on one man before start of the election scheduled in the 66-member body next Thursday.

Chamoun is prepared, it was said, to disappear quietly from the scene following a satisfactory political solution. The diplomatic sources said Chamoun is counseling his zealous parliamentary followers to elect a neutral man to avoid further deepening of the schism that has split the country into two rival political camps.

Foreign Policy At Stake

Russia Charges Turks Planning Attack On Iraq

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia has charged Turkey with planning to attack Iraq "in a few days time" and has sharply warned the Turks against taking such action, it was disclosed Friday.

A Soviet note to Turkey asserted that "a request from King Hussein," the Jordanian king who has declared himself head of the Iraq-Jordan Arab Union, might be used as a pretext for the attack. The new Iraqi regime has denounced the union.

The note, delivered Thursday to the Turkish Foreign Ministry in Ankara and reported by Moscow radio Friday night, said that "according to reports, the Turkish government is preparing to begin military operations against Iraq in a few days' time."

"The Soviet government," the note said, "considers it its duty to warn the Turkish government of its responsibility for the likely consequences of an armed conflict in this region."

"The Soviet government hopes that Turkey will not act with the aggressors, and that it will not commit any act likely to aggravate the situation in the Near and Middle East," the note said.

The note did not go into detail on the suggestion that King Hussein might be involved. It simply said, "A request by King Hussein might provide an official pretext for an onslaught by Turkish troops on Iraq."

Postpones Permits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission Friday postponed for at least another year the issuance of any permits for pay television service. Chairman John C. Doerfer said the commission acted in response to congressional requests.

Elwes Wins Forgiveness For Marrying Heiress

LONDON (AP)—Dominic Elwes won forgiveness from his mother-in-law and mercy from a judge today for marrying under-age heiress Tessa Kennedy twice in defiance of a court order.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Daska McLean, joined Elwes in appealing for his release from prison, where he has spent the last 10 days for contempt of court. And Justice Sir Ronald Roxburgh said he would restore the penniless 26-year-old son of international painter Simon Elwes to his bride shortly, perhaps within a week.

The triumph of young love over the letter of the law came at a hearing on Elwes' formal petition for release. The young husband said he apologized for all the trouble he had caused, and wanted out so he could start earning a living for himself and Tessa. "I cannot honestly say I regret

Hungarian Refugee Measure Is Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed Friday an act clearing the way for Hungarian refugees to become permanent residents of the United States and seek citizenship.

The act provides that the attorney general may classify as permanent residents any of the approximately 32,000 Hungarians who came to the United States after the Communist-crushed 1956 uprising.

having married, because I am married to someone I love deeply," he said in a letter read by his lawyer. "I very much regret that the circumstances of our marriage should have involved contempt of court."

Faced by opposition of her wealthy parents to their wedding, Dominic and Tessa fled from England to Scotland last November. Her parents countered with legal orders making her a ward of the London court and ordering both to return to its jurisdiction. Instead, the pair hied off to Cuba where they were married Jan. 27. Later they went on to New York and on April 1 were married a second time, just to make sure the knot was firmly tied.

Young Elwes was popped into prison upon their return from America July 15.

AF Abandons Search For Space Mouse

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force abandoned the South Atlantic search for Wickie the space mouse Friday but indicated the test of the experimental nose cone in which the little creature rode was a success.

After scouring the vast open seas near Ascension Island 1,000 miles off the coast of Africa for two days, the Air Force announced in a terse statement that efforts to recover the nose cone of the Thor-Able missile had been discontinued.

Wickie thus became the third mouse lost in the Thor-Able test series, designed primarily to prove the workability of an experimental nose cone design for intercontinental range ballistic missiles.

Mother And Six Children Drown In Flash Flood

SPENCER, W. Va. (AP) — A mother and six children, drowned in a flash flood that swept away their home on Granny's Creek about 30 miles southeast of Spencer Thursday night.

Only the father, John Willoughby, 45, survived. Willoughby said the last he remembered was clinging to a tree after he was carried through the top of the house by the surging water.

The dead were Mrs. Ella Willoughby, 37; Wilma Lee, 9; Beulah Irene, 8; Waveline, 6; William S. Raymond, 3, and Hazel, 2.

The house was a 60-year-old frame building located at the confluence of two small mountain streams.

Camera Firm Plans Layoff

BRAUNSCHWEIG, Germany (UPI)—Franke and Heidecke Co., one of Germany's leading camera manufacturers, announced Friday that it would lay off 340 workers because of the recession in the United States.

The company, makers of the widely-known Rolleiflex cameras, said the workers would be dismissed gradually between August and October.

Salary Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill increasing the salary of the district of Columbia superintendent of schools to $22,000 a year. Under previous law, the salary was set between $14,000 and $18,000.

Biggest Battle In Beirut Is Between Services

BEIRUT (UPI)—A group of U.S. Marines and paratroopers bore the scars Friday of their biggest battle to date in Lebanon—a strictly inter-service affair. The free-for-all apparently developed when a jeepload of Marines near Beirut's International Airport sounded off their opinion of the paratroopers' fighting qualities and manliness.

There was no decision, but in the words of one paratrooper: "I wouldn't say they love us now, but I think they've been converted."

Lawyer Dies From Injection

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — The death of a young attorney from an injection of ragweed extraction for the treatment of hay fever was "extremely rare," Dr. Seymour Crepea, the head of Wisconsin's Medical School Allergy Clinic said Friday.

Crepea said the injections are the most common form of treatment against hay fever in use. "I don't know how many gallons of this are given out in a year, but this case is extremely rare," he added.

Dirk Janssen, 31, dropped dead in his doctor's office Thursday from an "anaphylactic shock, or exaggerated reaction," from a half cubic centimeter of the extract.

The doctor, Meade Burke, said Janssen had been taking shots since mid-January and had showed no previous reaction.

Burke said the lawyer started coughing after the injection. "I thought he was having a reaction," the doctor said, "so I gave him a shot of adrenalin. He fell out of his chair. I called the police ambulance for oxygen and gave him a shot of aminophyllin — another stimulant. Nothing helped."

Prominent Pittsburgh Industrialist Dies

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Alan Magee Scaife, 58, prominent Pittsburgh industrialist and a leader in the city's renaissance, died Thursday in Magee Hospital of a heart ailment.

Scaife, a top man in the Mellon financial empire, had entered the hospital last Thursday for treatment, but his condition had not been believed serious. His wife, Sarah Mellon Scaife, was in New York at the time of his death.

He was board chairman of Scaife Co., which was founded here by his great grandfather. He also was a director in a dozen large corporations.

Jennie Arrives

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI)—Ingrid Bergman's 19-year-old daughter Jennie Lindstrom arrived unnoticed from New York Friday aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane and drove off toward Glasgow.

Gas Explosions Stem From Wrong Pipe Hook Up

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—A "do it yourself" householder may have hooked up the wrong pipes that sent propane gas into water lines and set off blasts that sent thousands of persons fleeing from their homes, authorities said Friday.

The series of at least six explosions Thursday apparently stemmed from propane gas which seeped into water mains and blew up in nearby homes and restaurants. Four persons were injured.

Investigators said a preliminary study indicated the gas may have been forced into the wrong mains by a householder who attached a gas tank to the wrong pipe.

Four homes, a malt shop and a drive-in restaurant were destroyed or damaged by the blasts and three small fires broke out.

Johnson Hits Speed Of U.S. Defense Pace

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's majority leader said Friday that if Rome had been built at the pace the U.S. Defense Department is moving the streets would still be unpared.

"Where are the missiles, where are the satellites, and where are the other devices?" Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) demanded of Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a Senate hearing.

The session was held behind closed doors so that McElroy and his aides could describe a number of secret military projects they said would demonstrate that the nation's defense buildup is moving ahead.

"The examples definitely represent progress, much of which is substantial," Johnson reported after the two-hour hearing before his Senate Preparedness subcommittee.

"But if Rome had been built at the same rate of speed, the streets would still be unpared."

"The secretary and his people are doing a good job. They have strengthened the defenses of the country and no one can question their dedication."

"But I believe the committee would have a greater sense of comfort if it felt there was a greater desire not just to improve our defenses, not just to catch up with the Russians, but to produce a preparedness program second to none."

"The plans are excellent. But plans are no substitute for military hardware and trained men." To this mixture of praise and rather extravagant criticism, defense officials had no immediate reply.

Johnson said he remained unconvinced that the Defense Department is working with the "grim sense of urgency" required by the times.

Queen Is Visited By Her Physicians

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, who is suffering from catarrhal sinusitis, was visited at Buckingham Palace Friday by her physicians.

The three physicians have been paying regular calls since her illness developed more than two weeks ago. Thursday night they carried out a second irrigation of the affected sinus.

The Queen's temperature has been normal and her condition continues to improve, the palace reported Thursday night.

Work On Satellite

LONDON (UPI) — Moscow Radio said Friday that Chinese Communist scientists are working on an artificial earth satellite.

Capehart Asks Probe Of Ethics On Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) formally demanded Friday an investigation of why a Maryland firm, fighting a bill before Congress, put Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) on its payroll.

Raising a question of ethics, Capehart mentioned a House inquiry into whether White House aide Sherman Adams exerted official influence for his gift-giving friend Bernard Goldfine, and quoted an old saw: "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

The California congressman is the son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Capehart made his demand for an investigation to a Senate Banking subcommittee headed by Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.). Sparkman said he would put the matter up to the subcommittee later.

The subcommittee is considering a bill to forbid savings and loan associations from advertising that their deposits and securities are insured, unless they are insured by a federal insurance agency.

The firm which hired Roosevelt to be chairman of its board, at $6,000 a year for part-time services, is the Family Savings Assn. of nearby Silver Springs, Md. It carries insurance with a Panama firm.

Roosevelt testified against the bill Thursday. Capehart said "We want to know who is paying you for this attack" and Roosevelt retorted that "I am not being paid for testifying."

Friday, with attorney Sherman Cohen on the stand for Family Savings, Capehart demanded to know why Roosevelt had been hired as board chairman. "He lives in California," the senator pointed out.

Cohen replied: "He has a national reputation as one of the leaders and champions of small business."

Leaves For Bonn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles took off for Bonn and London Friday.

Americans Beat Monsoons To Conquer Gasherbrum

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Two bearded Americans outraced the monsoons and planted the Stars and Stripes on 26,470-foot Mt. Gasherbrum I, the world's second-highest unconquered peak, on July 4, members of the U. S. expedition reported Friday.

More than five weeks of struggling up the snow-covered giant brought the eight-man American team to the last lap of their hazardous ascent, when bad weather rolled in and pinned them down for four days. The fifth day broke cold and clear.

But, recounted Richard K. Irvin, Ingrid Bergman's 19-year-old daughter Jennie Lindstrom arrived unnoticed from New York Friday aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane and drove off toward Glasgow. "We expected the monsoons to come in a few days," with their blinding rains, a

Note Rejects Curb On UN Conference

Security Council To Decide Date And Form Ground Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower served notice Friday that if the Soviet request for a summit conference on the Middle East was to be met, the conference would have to deal with the broader problems of that troubled area.

In a new note to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, the President bluntly rejected Khrushchev's suggestion that any summit conference be limited to the Soviet complaints about Anglo-American troop movements in Lebanon and Jordan.

He said the securing of peace in the Middle East requires solution of the "far broader problems" which have plagued the area.

He also told Khrushchev it was up to the United Nations Security Council to decide the date, the participants, and the ground rules to govern any meeting of chiefs of government under its auspices.

Note Handed Menshikov

The president's 1,000-word note on the subject was handed to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. It previously was shown to U.S. allies.

In making the contents of the letter available to the press, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that "of course" the President would attend a summit meeting if a satisfactory arrangement could be set up by the Security Council. It was Hagerty's first statement to that effect.

The President indirectly suggested to Khrushchev that he abandon his practice of writing highly-publicized letters and allow the ambassadors at the United Nations to make the arrangements if he sincerely wants a meeting.

The President spiked any Khrushchev hope of turning a summit conference into a one-sided propaganda forum for renewing his charges of U.S. and British "aggression" in Lebanon and Jordan.

The President did not directly refer to repeated U.S. charges that the Soviet Union and its Arab followers have engaged in a long campaign to foment strife and revolutions in small pro-Western Middle Eastern nations.

Long-Range View Stressed

But he told Khrushchev that "I would be lacking in candor if I did not make clear that to put peace and security on a more stable basis in the Middle East requires far more than merely a consideration of Lebanon and Jordan."

"These situations are but isolated manifestations of far broader problems," he said. "In my opinion, the instability of peace and security is in large measure due to the jeopardy in which small nations are placed."

If a summit meeting is held, he said, the United States will dis-

Fallout Victims To Be Checked

RABAU, New Britain (UPI)—Three U.S. Army doctors flew here Friday to examine crew members of two Japanese coast guard vessels dusted with radioactive fallout last week from a U.S. hydrogen bomb test at Eniwetok.

In Tokyo, informed sources said the Japanese government was paving the way for a stringent protest to the United States against the incident, which occurred July 14 outside the U.S. designated nuclear danger area.

The three doctors, who were not identified, arrived from Truk in the Caroline Islands to examine five crew members of the coast guard vessels Takuyo Maru and the Satsuma Maru who were hospitalized with radiation exposure. The coast guard in Tokyo said 37 crew members and members of Japanese scientific teams aboard the vessels had been placed under medical observation because they showed signs of radiation illness.

The captains of the two ships, which were carrying out oceanographic studies in connection with the International Geophysical Year, said they were well out of the danger zone when showered with radioactive fallout.

Slots To Remain Clicking On Potomac River

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Slot machines will continue clicking at Potomac River casinos for the rest of the summer season.

The slots were to be outlawed by a State law that went into effect June 1, but they got a new lease of life when two Circuit Court judges declared the law unconstitutional.

The Court of Appeals Friday declined to give an immediate hearing to the State's appeal from the lower court ruling, but it did advance the case to the top of its new docket.

Arguments on the constitutionality of the slot machine ban will be the first ones heard when the appellate court returns from its summer recess Sept. 16.

The State's motion for advancement of its appeal was vigorously opposed at Friday's hearing by attorneys representing operators of six piers and a converted ferry boat off the Virginia Shore of the Potomac.

The high court interrupted its summer recess to conduct the hearing at the request of the casino operators' attorneys. Ordinarily, motions for advancement are granted without a hearing.

If the State's motion had been denied, the appeal would have been placed behind those previously filed and would not have been heard until January or February.

Stedman Prescott Jr., deputy attorney general, asked for a hearing on the appeal at the earliest possible date so that "the public interest may not continue to be adversely affected by the pendency of the serious legal question involved."

He pointed out that the law concerned was a criminal statute and the lower court decision has enjoined its enforcement.

Paul J. Bailey, a Leonardtown attorney representing the casino operators, said no such urgency exists.

Judge William L. Henderson suggested that, if the lower court was wrong, the Legislature is being thwarted every hour the appeal is delayed.

Then, Bailey argued, every appeal involving constitutionality should be advanced.

Wolff Denies Meeting Adams

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A textile executive brushed off as "ridiculous" Friday a charge that Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams used improper influence to get the executive's firm a $41,284 refund from the government.

Leo Wolff, who was president of the now-defunct Rayline Worsted, Inc., of Manchester, N.H., told reporters he never had met Adams. The White House has said Adams forwarded inquiries to the Pentagon for Rayline as a matter of routine.

Wolff, relaxed and cheerful, was interviewed while waiting to testify before a House armed services subcommittee which is investigating the 1957 Army refund of a penalty against Rayline for late delivery on a 1941 cloth contract.

"I don't know anyone in Washington, not even the New Hampshire people — Bridges and who was that other one, Merrow?" Wolff told newsmen. This referred to Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) and Rep. Chester E. Merrow (R-N.H.) who also forwarded queries to the Pentagon for Rayline.

Wolff said that Adams, in forwarding an inquiry from his firm, did just what a congressman would do in similar circumstances.

"He gives you a pat on the back says 'I'll take care of it' and then forward it to get rid of it," he said.

Note Rejects

"To do otherwise," he said, "would be to be blind to the teaching of history."

Note Welcomed In London

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan already had said he is willing to attend a summit meeting. In London the British government said it "welcomes" the President's latest note on the subject and that the British "were fully consulted on its terms."

In Paris, Premier Charles de Gaulle held urgent conferences with his cabinet about whether he should attend the New York meeting. He has agreed to a summit meeting in principle, but has been reluctant to attend a session in New York.

American officials said one test of Soviet intentions would hinge on Khrushchev's reaction to the President's suggestion that he allow the regular U. N. ambassadors to make arrangements for the proposed summit meeting.

They said Khrushchev would cast doubt on his sincerity in seeking a conference of chiefs of government if he persisted in exchanging propaganda-style letters with the Western nations.

Officer Is Suspended

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Parole and Probation has suspended H. Irving Miller, a parole officer on the Eastern Shore since 1947, and is considering departmental charges against him.

Sense Of Smell By Father Saves Young Girl's Life

WEST WUNION, W. Va. (UPI) — Charles Guthrie's keen sense of smell probably saved the life of his seven-year-old daughter here early Friday.

Guthrie became curious about a rubbery odor in the house. He thought it might be coming from the refrigerator. But on close inspection of his daughter's bed, he discovered that her foam rubber pillow had somehow caught fire and was melting.

The fire had already eaten its way into the bed mattress when Guthrie discovered it. The child was unharmed.

Flanagan Quits Under Fire As CSC Member

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bernard L. Flanagan of St. Albans, Vt., quit under fire Friday as an interim member of the Civil Service Commission because of what he called his "honest mistakes" on past applications for government jobs.

At Flanagan's request, President Eisenhower withdrew his nomination of Flanagan to the commission. He has been serving as a commissioner under a recess appointment for the past seven months.

The 39-year-old Flanagan, a former Capitol Hill policeman, had been sharply criticized by members of the Senate Civil Service Committee for filing misinformation in applying for earlier jobs with a variety of government agencies.

In a letter to the President, Flanagan conceded he "made some mistakes" in filling out applications for jobs with the old Office of Price Stabilization, the Veterans Administration and the General Service Administration.

He said the inaccuracies about his education, past job titles, salaries and other matters "were entirely immaterial" to the jobs held.

"But they have been seized upon and magnified out of all proportion to the question of my ability and fitness to be a civil service commissioner," he said.

Flanagan said he thought "far too much" of the Eisenhower administration "to allow myself to be used for its political harassment."

Middies Ordered To Return Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy said Friday 300 Naval Academy midshipmen, who were cruising with the 6th Fleet when the Lebanon crisis developed, will be flown back to the United States.

They will be brought home in the Marine Corps air transports used last week to take about 800 Marine replacements to Lebanon.

The Navy said the midshipmen, who were scattered among many warships in the Mediterranean, are now being assembled at Suda Bay, Crete, for the homeward air lift.

Agent Is Indicted

BALTIMORE (AP) — The business agent for a ship chasers' local of the International Longshoremen's Assn. was indicted Friday on charges of embezzling $12,049.33 in union funds.

The grand jury returned the charge against John E. Harrison of Baltimore after hearing witnesses from the union and investigators from the State's attorney's office.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The rebel leader in Beirut dealt a stiff blow Friday to rising hopes that peace might return to this troubled little Mideast nation next week.

Saeb Salam declared his rebels will not permit Parliament to name a president as long as pro-Western President Camille Chamoun is in power; and foreign troops remain in Lebanon.

Parliament is scheduled to meet next Thursday to name Chamoun's successor. Hopes had risen high that a candidate acceptable to both sides would be named, thus ending the long and bloody uprising.

"The Lebanese revolution will not permit the holding of any presidential election in the shadow of tanks, planes and fleets of foreign troops," Salam told correspondents.

Stock Market Surges Up Active Trade Session

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market surged to new highs in a 4,430,000-share session that featured liquor shares, building stocks, chemicals, rails, and selected issues in the papers, aircrafts, steels and motors.

The Dow-Jones industrial stock average broke through the 500 mark for the first time since last August, climbing 4.64 to 501.76, its highest level since Aug. 2.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a gain of 0.32 to 46.97, indicating a rise of better than $1.5 billion in the value of all listed shares.

Best gain of the day came late in the session when Du Pont ran up 4% to 195%. In the same group Stauffer was 2 higher, Dow up over a point.

Trading was at a fast pace from the outset with tickers running late briefly after the opening and again at the close. Volume, comparing with 3,740,000 shares Thursday, was the heaviest since last Dec. 31.

American Motors, the big feature in Thursday's late rally, again topped the list on volume with turnover of 179,000 shares. It touched a high of 15 1/4 and finished at 14 1/4, up 3/4. Chrysler, Ford and General Motors added major fractions.

Schenley responded to a Senate Finance Committee vote to lengthen the tax-free liquor bonding period from 8 to 20 years, with current as well as future stocks to be included. It ran up 3 points to 28 on blocks ranging to 22,000 shares and held 2 1/2 of the rise, finishing second to American Motors with 103,900-share volume.

Other liquors—American Distilling, Publicker, Standard Brands, National Distillers—moved up with Schenley although for some of them the decision to include existing stocks in the lengthened period was considered unfavorable since Schenley is said to have a large portion of aged stocks.

Building stocks were given a whirl, with gains of a point or more in Ideal Cement, Alpha Portland, Penn Dixie and improvement of more than 2 points in Bestwall Gypsum and Minneapolis Honeywell.

Rail gains ranged past 2 points in Kansas City Southern, a point or so in Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific.

Steels were firm with U. S. Steel up nearly a point and Eastern Stainless, a specialty, up over 2. International Paper rose over 2. International Paper rose over 1. Crown Zellerbach nearly 2. Of a total 1,230 issues traded, 701 were higher, with 222 setting new highs; 296 lower, with 5 at new lows.

Allegany Farm Bureau Begins Membership Drive

A membership drive was launched and the Farm Queen contest discussed by Carol Leatherman Jr., Baltimore, membership field man, at the meeting of the board of directors of the Allegany County Farm Bureau, held Thursday evening at the Court House. Vernon Loar presided and appointed Mrs. Marshall Porter publicity chairman. Mrs. Edgar Matthews was selected to represent Allegany County as a judge for the Garrett County Farm Queen contest, to be held August 12 at McHenry.

The membership drive will be held during August. Committees are to report on the drive at the meeting August 28 at 8 p. m., after which refreshments will be served the workers. Special guests and past officers will be invited to attend. It also was decided to invite all interested farmers who are members of the Farm Bureau to meetings which will be held the fourth Thursday of each month. Robert Heavner reported approximately 50 members are enrolled.

Mr. Leatherman explained that a Farm Queen contest must be a resident of Maryland, to enter the state contest. He also spoke of the central location of the state office building on Route 26 at Randallstown.

Discussing the price of milk, it was pointed out that feed prices are up and milk down; increased services are required by the rapidly growing population, including greatly expanded school program, the Farm Bureau reiterated its stand that "no increase in levies be made on farm property or other real estate, which now is heavily taxed."

Others present were Ivan Wilson, Midland; Robert Porter, Eckhart; W. H. Johnson, city; George Clingerman, Flintstone; Joseph Stafford, Williams Road; and Joseph Steger, county agent.

Cave-Kave History Outlined

Leo Cave of Luke was elected general chairman of the Cave-Kave Clan at the first reunion held Sunday at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Kave, Largent, W. Va. It was decided to hold another get-together July 19, 1959 at the same camp.

District chairmen will be Mrs. William Malcolm of the Paw Paw area; Paul Malcolm, Fort Ashby; Mrs. Ruth Moreland, Charles-town; Mrs. John D. Rankin, Washington; Jesse Cave, Winchester, Va.; Mrs. Paul Oates, Romney; Leo Cave, Luke; Mrs. Clifford D. Smith, Thomas Cave, Luray; and Jesse Kave, Cumberland.

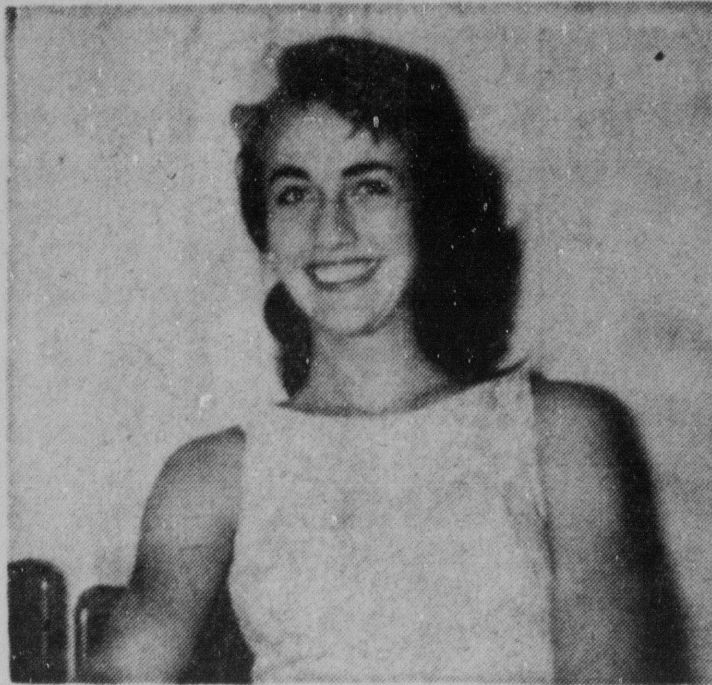

James J. Kave traced the history of the family to the original Cave in England in 1559. Thomas Cave reported that Isaac Cave of Luray, from whom the family descended, was a blacksmith and was brought to Cumberland to make the chisels to cut the stones for First Presbyterian Church, Washington Street. While here he lived on Emily Street. During the Civil War he was commissioned to do the blacksmith work for the Confederate Army at Luray.

Recognition was paid to Thomas Cave, 69, of Luray, as the oldest member present. A cafeteria style basket picnic was held at noon. Dock Painter, Luray, son-in-law of Dan Cave, son of Isaac, gave the invocation.

One hundred twenty-three members of the clan attended, representing the 13 children of old Isaac. Of these there were three families with 100 per cent attendance, from four or five states. The family of the late Ashby Kave, Neals Run, W. Va., son of Isaac, had the largest attendance with 41 present; next largest was the family of Andrew Cave of Luke with 39. Robert Bruce Cave, Luke, son of Bruce, returned from service in Germany July 15 and attended the reunion before reporting at Fort Sill, Okla. Gardner Cave, Winchester, Va., US-AFR, who was unable to attend, flew over the camp and dipped his wing in salute.

Games, boating, horseshoe pitching, badminton and swimming featured the entertainment.

The Jewell family reunion will be held tomorrow at Lost River State Park.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Matthew	16	13-20
Monday	Matthew	18	15-20
Tuesday	Acts	2	41-47
Wednesday	Acts	6	1-6
Thursday	Acts	20	17-35
Friday	I Corinthians	10	23-35
Saturday	I Corinthians	9	19-23

Folks are curious. "What is it for . . . What does it do?" They usually want to know about everything they come across.

But ask them, "What's the Church for . . . What does it do?" and they're likely to stop short.

You can tell them the Church is the oldest institution in your community. It stands for God, for right-living, and for the way of Christ.

Its aim is to help develop Christian character . . . to share a soul-lifting gospel with each person.

It strengthens the community's ceaseless struggle against crime . . . it serves families and individuals in times of trouble, sorrow, or sickness. It rejoices with them in their happiness.

Once you're aware of the Church's far-reaching program, its challenge is irresistible.

Accept it . . . take your stand for God, for right-living, and for the way of Christ through the Church.

Nothing Like A Cop On The Beat

The U. S. serviceman is becoming the shield of the free world. His presence—even if on a token basis — is a visible notice to would-be aggressors of "Thus far, no farther."

This is true despite the fact that U. S. bombers flying over many lands on the perimeter of the communist world have been a constant reminder of this country's determination.

There is nothing like having a man on the scene, a "cop on the beat."

This is one reason, of course, why the nations of Western Europe have been so eager to have U. S. servicemen actually stationed on their territory. That way they could be assured that if trouble started this nation would have no alternative but to be involved.

Now U. S. servicemen are being stationed in far less friendly situations and under the most uncertain of circumstances.

But, after all, the British had a thin line of defenders around the globe to preserve the peace of the world for generations. And to go back in history much farther, it was a shield of Roman legions on the borders of the empire of Rome which kept the barbarians at bay.

The United States has been a nation with intentions and attitudes so peaceful as to be almost pacifist. For that reason it has seldom honored the men and officers of its armed forces. Indeed, Americans have had a latent distrust of them.

But in a time when Americans are realizing to their sorrow that force often is the only answer in this imperfect world, they realize their debt to these men. Their hopes go with them as they man the thin outpost line on the rim of the free world.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
Mr. Goldfine

The record is in and one may now sit in judgment on the friendship of Mr. Goldfine and Sherman Adams. If the record is incomplete, if Goldfine's defense has been inadequate, it is entirely his fault and that of his lawyers and his publicity men. They had their opportunity to state their case.

First, as to Sherman Adams, all that was proved beyond doubt is that he accepted $4,000 to $5,000 of gifts from a personal friend, Goldfine, over a period of years and that he returned gifts to Goldfine, each according to what he could afford. Gifts of this sort are not unusual, but the essential question is not the gifts but whether Adams used his enormous influence to aid Goldfine in his business. This has not been firmly established.

As for Goldfine, he presented a poor picture of a small businessman, operating principally by marginal arrangements and by influence. He gave a great many gifts to a variety of persons, from the President of the United States down to the office boys and girls of "important people." He regards that as noble of himself because he is sharing his blessings.

However, in the list which the Congressional committee published, the names of those who got Christmas presents were always employed in offices of those who could help Goldfine.

I do not know the man or his affairs, but I think I know the type. Were I his lawyer or his publicity man, I would have provided a list of all the gifts he gave to individuals and to charities over the years. It would have been discovered that giving with such a man is not only a habit but a preoccupation; that its purpose is as much to show that he has it to give as to assist the needy. The Biblical word, Hesei, is a difficult one to translate into English because, in its depth, it contains the full meaning of sharing one's blessings with others, and whether Goldfine was conscious of it or not, his environment was such that the mark of success, the proof of success is to give gifts.

In fact, in the environment from which Mr. Goldfine emanates, it is not unusual for the collector for a charity to demand more than is given on the ground that the earnings for the year were very large. This goes back to the ancient system of tithing. I read such a letter once, the most impudent letter I have ever seen from one man to another. Nevertheless, it was characteristic of the abuse of giving.

As one read Goldfine's testimony, it was obvious that he was acting the wise-guy who was trying to trick everybody in the room, including his own counsel. This again is a form of ostentation as is his use of the term, "Mr. Goldfine," referring to himself.

The business of uncashed "treasurer's checks," should not have been difficult to explain. Since 1941, Goldfine has apparently been withdrawing funds from his own accounts and from his various businesses in the form of "certified checks" and "bank treasurer's checks," which have the same value as cash money and most of which have never been cashed. These checks had to be made out to someone or the banks would not have issued them. They stand on the banks' books as a liability and have undoubtedly been called to the banks' attention annually by the state bank examiners and the Federal Reserve System bank examiners. Reserves had to be set up to meet them.

Competent Congressional committee investigators ought to be able to get at all the facts of these checks if they are pertinent to this particular investigation. Congressional committees with limited appropriations often try to save money by getting the story out of the witness without adequate investigation or research. It is not a good method.

Goldfine may now learn that it is cheaper to do business without Washington "pull" than with it. Just as those who get special privileges from Washington administrative agencies benefit from them, so are they liable always to suffer from investigations into the conduct of these agencies. And another thing Goldfine may have learned is that guilt by association is a normal reflex of public opinion which holds that when a businessman gives gifts to politicians he generally expects something in return.

'It Didn't Work Out The Way I Figured'

Where We Stand Now: No Mid-East Policy

WASHINGTON

This is a moment when it is important to know just where we stand now; and for this purpose, it is essential to note the great gap at the very center of the picture. We have troops in Lebanon. The British have troops in Jordan. But the United States and Britain do not have a Middle Eastern policy.

This is the only way to sum up the unhappy results of widespread inquiry in authoritative quarters. You cannot get an answer to the question: "Where do we go from here?" or rather, you only get vaguely mumbled prayers that somehow or other, someday or other, the combination of the Marines and special Ambassador Robert Murphy will achieve a political compromise in Beirut.

A good many people seem to believe that this is a workable Middle Eastern policy, fit to compete with the cruelly shrewd, arrogantly bold policy of Nikita Khrushchev. But this widespread belief is only a testimonial to the Administration's success in blurring or concealing all the facts that count.

It is hard to believe that President Eisenhower purposely misled the Congressional leaders, at the July 14 meeting when he first revealed his intention to send troops into Lebanon. A President who leaves the entire, day-to-day task of policy-making to his Secretary of State can quite easily misconceive the choice he has to make, when he must suddenly make a very hard choice with great speed. At any rate, the misrepresentation of the Middle Eastern situation was begun by the President himself, at this first moment of disclosure.

Three different kinds of false impression were conveyed to the Congressional leaders. The President first of all said that he had received an "ultimatum" from President Chamoun, threatening the effective abdication of the Lebanese government if the Marines were not sent "within 48 hours."

In reality, President Eisenhower had long since promised President Chamoun to send troops to Lebanon, if the Lebanese government desired him to do so. Now Chamoun had simply requested Eisenhower to keep his freely given promise. He had also warned that the seismic shock of the coup d'etat in Baghdad would quickly destroy the government in Beirut, unless the American promise were quickly kept. Being on the naked brink of immediate defeat, he had asked for the American answer within two days. This was the Chamoun "ultimatum."

Secondly, both the President and Secretary of State briskly threw Allen Dulles to the wolves,

by intimating that they had been taken by surprise by the coup in Iraq. Hence the Senate is now busily investigating the C. I. A.

But in reality the President and Secretary of State had long been warned that indecision about Lebanon would lead to a coup in Iraq. The warnings had come, not only from the C. I. A., but also from the murdered Iraqi leader, Nuri Pasha, from the governments of Pakistan, Iran and Turkey, and from many other sources. All the C. I. A. failed to do was to say: "On this particular day, in this particular regiment, a military coup will be organized." This was the extent of the "surprise," and this much "surprise" all governments must expect.

Finally, and perhaps worst of all, the President also indicated to the Congressional leaders that

Politics In Texas Now Hotter Than Near-War In Lebanon

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—There may be near war in the Near East. There may be a summit conference in the offing. There may be a new assistant president in prospect to replace Sherman Adams. All these may be important. But today there's an election in the biggest state-at-present in the union, and some of the races are interesting, not merely to Texans, but to the nation. Here are some of them:

Henry Gonzalez—first Mexican-American ever to run for governor of Texas, is so proud of his Mexican ancestry that he spells his name with two z's instead of one. His father is editor of the Spanish paper La Prensa in San Antonio. Henry is a Texas State senator who chalked up a record for filibustering on immigration. His race is significant, not because he'll win, but because of the growing Mexican-Negro bloc in Texas. The Mexican population of Texas is approximately one-million-and-a-half; the Negro population one million. A lot of them have not registered in the past, but this year there will be an extra effort to vote.

"Some people say I haven't a Chinaman's chance," said Gonzalez in Houston the other day. "I don't want a Chinaman's chance. All I want is a Mexican's chance."

Running against Gonzalez are Gov. Price Daniel for a second term, and that old perennial flour salesman, ex-Senator "Pass-The-Biscuits, Pappy" O'Daniel. Gonzalez is putting up such a race that he may come out ahead of O'Daniel and possibly force Governor Daniel into a run-off. Daniel, however, will win in the end.

William Blakely—a millionaire businessman dressed in chaps and sombrero—but forgetting to take off his French cuffs, is spending more money to get elected to the Senate than William Vare once did in Pennsylvania. Blakely has plenty of it to spend. He owns a lot of oil, a good slice of Braniff Air Lines, and a large piece of downtown Dallas, is listed by Fortune Magazine as one of the 75 wealthiest men in America. Blakely has so much TV time at his disposal that during one show from the Rice Hotel in Houston he ran out of things to say and had to spend the last seven minutes shaking hands. There weren't enough well-wishers on hand, however, and some of them had to act as repeaters.

Blakely is in the happy position of not worrying about the Near East, a summit conference, or the depression. He is worried about two things—labor and Negroes. When he served briefly in the Senate he did worry about one government agency—the Federal Trade Commission. In this he had something in common with Bernard Goldfine.

When Edward Tait came before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee for confirmation, Blakely then a 90-day Senator, proceeded to heckle him unmercifully. Usually a new Senator, especially one serving only a three-month term, doesn't butt into a confirmation hearing. He lets his seniors ask the questions. But the interim Senator from Texas proceeded to ask Tait all sorts of questions about the Trade Commission's right to supervise insurance companies and decide whether their advertising was deceptive.

Finally Senate colleagues got the pitch. They learned that one of Bill Blakely's insurance companies, Girardin Insurance, had been cited by the Trade Commission for false and deceptive advertising. Furthermore, the Senator himself had been cited by the FTC.

Blakely now wants to come back to the Senate, is running against Sen. Ralph Yarborough who has little TV money to spend but is visiting almost every town and city in Texas.

Note—One group of Texans who are turning thumbs down on Blakely are the farmers. Blakely's Braniff Air Lines, of which he owns 517,000 shares, has received $10,746,000 in government subsidies during the past six years. Blakely's dividends during that period are estimated at around $667,000. Simultaneously he opposes price support subsidies for farmers.

Barefoot Sanders—Texas will probably send a Barefoot Congressman to Washington to replace the one Texas Republican now in Congress. There's a scramble for this one Republican seat.

When a labor leader, Grover Cantrell, registered to oppose GOP Congressman Bruce Alger in the Republican primary for this seat, the Republican state committee promptly raised the filing fee from $100 to $2,250. They figured this would prevent a labor leader from filing. Cantrell, however, dug down in his pocket, passed the hat among some of his friends, and filed the $2,250.

Actually he doesn't expect to defeat Alger for the Republican nomination. All he wants is to make Republicans vote in the Republican primary instead of voting in the Democratic primary as they usually do. This gives them a chance to nominate a Republican on the Democratic ticket and a real Republican on the Republican ticket.

But this time neither will happen. Wealthy, conservative Dallas seems certain to elect a Democrat, Barefoot Sanders. Dallas has been sending handsome, rich Republican Bruce Alger to Washington in the past, but this year it's sure to send Barefoot Sanders. That, incidentally, is his genuine name. It's not a nickname. Barefoot, by the way, wears shoes.

The Clearance

By Brother Barnabas

Why don't you look where you are going?
Why don't you go where you're looking?

It's at a clearance sale one hears such colloquy—as customers jam the aisles rushing like mad from counter to counter, from handkerchiefs to haberdashery, from linens to leather goods, from books to blouses.

Here and there and everywhere are clumps of women shoppers pawing heaps of feminine apparel that has been slow to move during the season or imported from the mills for the occasion, in the hope of finding a prize.

The doors have been open since ten o'clock in the morning of the last day of the month—since then the metropolitan population has been stampeding every entrance, crowding the aisles, the escalators and the elevators.

Patrons come singly, in pairs as husband and wife or in family formation when children couple hands lest they get lost in the shuffle.

Running The Gauntlet

"Greatly reduced" is a familiar placard and one becomes "greatly reduced in purse and poundage by the time he runs the gauntlet of all the obstructions that impede his progress.

In the general melee one may expect to be bumped or jabbed with an umbrella, in which case he will look daggers or say "I'm sorry," according to his degree of culture and refinement.

A Sad Accident

One man had the rib of a lady's parasol jabbed into his right eye. She begged his pardon politely. He said, "Don't mention it, please; I have another."

A modern department store at full shopping tide is a huge panorama for the study of psychology.

The man who said "The world is so full of a number of things, I think we all should be happy as kings" would have revised his philosophy had he lived in this age.

First, things occupy a precarious position in our world.

Furthermore, things don't make people happy. "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesses," declares Holy Writ.

"Give me neither poverty nor riches, but such things as are convenient" are the words of a wise man.

People in their unwisdom buy things that are more harmful than beneficial.

God's gifts are not what men want, but what they need.

Your six-year-old boy may want a gun. He doesn't need it.

An Ancient Militarist

Alexander the Great conquered the known world, and cried for more worlds to conquer.

The farmer said all the land he wanted to annex was what was next to his own. This is communism. The foolish man of the Bible had no barn big enough to hold the season's crop. So he would build bigger bins, supposing that world possessions are more important than folks.

What's the sense in owning 20 suits and 40 pairs of shoes when one of each will suffice if thereby your neighbor is made a nudist or your sister wears toothpick heels?

What boots it if your larder is stocked with more food than you can possibly consume while Lazarus picks up the crumbs at Dives' table? (Luke 16:19-20).

This column is written between stops, but there is time to record a few vagrant impressions in passing.

I note that if we can't find what we need in a clearance sale, we must have extravagant tastes. There is something there for matron and maid, for the child and for the parent, for the bookworm and the electrician, for the sweetheart and for the bride, and if he is a bachelor looking for a wife, he may find her in the person of one of the salesladies, so yearning and obliging.

Observe that there is scant provision for rest and solitude which mankind stands in sore need of.

There are few spots where one can rest his tired dogs and they are always occupied.

Pity the tired folks behind the counter who must stand long hours and keep a winsome smile for the most exacting purchaser.

Finally, there should be in everyone's life an unloading of self-worn practices, an eradication of impure habits or wrong desires for the sake of the life that now is and that which is yet to come when man to man the world around shall brothers be—for a that and a' that. So says, BROTHER BARNABAS

Governor Says State Needs National Guard

Voices Disfavor Of Federal Plan For Reduction

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—Reorganization of West Virginia's National Guard must include places for substantially all officers and men currently assigned or it will not win approval of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

That was the essence of remarks made by the governor to the opening session of the state American Legion convention here Friday.

Referring to a recent announcement by the Defense Department which calls for the reorganization of Guard units in all states, Underwood noted it would reduce the total of company-size units in West Virginia from 41 to 23.

"This reduction is so drastic as to make it virtually impossible to redistribute the units throughout the state in a manner which will enable the guard to perform its mission in the event of an emergency," he said.

A counter proposal to that of the Defense Department was drawn up last week by the National Adjutants General Assn. The governor said it called for 32 units in West Virginia and would allow every city now supporting a Guard unit to retain at least one.

"I shall not approve any reorganization unless it provides sufficient strength to place a National Guard unit in every community in this state which now supports one," he said.

The governor must give formal approval to any reduction in National Guard strength in West Virginia. This is also true in other states.

Underwood presented an award to retiring Legion Commander W. Dewey Mentz of Welch from the governor's committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped for his service to the group.

Members of Maplehurst Country Club are shown preparing for the "Western Hoe Down" to be held in the barn on the club grounds this evening. Square dancing, decorations in the Western style, Western dress and the illumination idea which originated in Old Mexico, will be featured. The group placed two to three inches of sand in the bottom of paper bags. In the center of the sand a candle is set. When lit the bag gives off a soft glow and there is practically no fire hazard. Over 400 lights were made and will be placed at 10-foot intervals along the 1/2 mile road leading from the entrance to the barn. # Two Bedford County Girls Plan Hamid Production

BEDFORD, Pa. — Two Bedford County, Pa., girls will find themselves and their talents thrust into the limelight August 5 when the George Hamid production of "Satellite Spectacular" opens for a five-day run at the Bedford County Fair August 4-9.

Miss Eichelberger's talents were uncovered by Hamid last year when he was arrested by some preliminary sketches of costume design left in the Eichelberger auto which he borrowed during his stay with the grandstand follies in Bedford last year. He urged Miss Eichelberger to complete the sequence, and she designed for him the "Satellite Spectacular," which began rehearsals last week in Trenton, N.J. The show will premiere in

W.Va. Democrat Chairman Says GOP Is Failing

Claims His Party Must Rescue State

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia Democratic Chairman Hulet C. Smith said Friday night that the state is "in trouble" because of high unemployment and the Democratic Party "must come to the rescue."

Addressing a Young Democratic workshop meeting, Smith said "we must create jobs for the jobless, but in reaching this decision we cannot react to it as the Republicans have done during the 18 months they have occupied the statehouse."

Smith said Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and other Republican leaders "apparently believe that reckless economy claims are a salve which heals all public wounds, and when economies don't exist they manufacture them."

"Republican 'economy' is a many-splendored thing—but only on paper," Smith said.

"Against this dreary backdrop of Republican tub-thumping, inaction and inaction, we have serious problems that must be solved. And since the Underwood administration appears neither by temperament nor spirit to be fitted to the task, the Democratic party must come to the rescue of West Virginia—as it did in 1933. 'There has been too much talk already,' Smith asserted. 'What we need now are solutions to our problems, and a program for the future.'"

Garrett Fair Premium Book Is Released

OAKLAND — Garrett County Fair premium books are now available. These books can be obtained from department superintendents, the fair manager, or the county agents' office.

According to James McHenry now is the time to start planning exhibits. The Garrett County Fair offers an opportunity for farm families to exhibit articles which represent the best of their produce. Exhibitors should remember that an exhibit is representative of the best they have and is offered in free competition with exhibits from their neighbors.

Points to consider in selecting exhibits for the Fair are truthfulness of type or variety, uniformity, freedom from blemish or faulty craftsmanship, and standards of quality.

Many people only consider one department when exhibiting at the Fair, McHenry said, however, the Fair offers an opportunity for exhibition of all phases of farm and home products. County Agent McHenry suggests that the family sit down around the supper table with their premium book and plan all the exhibits their family could make at the Fair.

Fair dates are August 11 through 15.

Tavern License Suspended At Blaine

Ritz Tavern of Blaine, Mineral County and Al's Sport Center, Smithers, Fayette County, drew 30-day suspensions on charges of possession and sale of whisky. The suspensions are effective Saturday midnight.

Platt said a charge of possession of whisky against Bob's Place, Williamson, was dismissed.

Increase Reported In Polio As Many Fail To Get Shots

KEYSER — West Virginia health authorities are expressing concern over the apparent increase of poliomyelitis cases in the state now as compared to the incidence of the disease last year. As of July 18, 1953, 22 cases have been reported with two deaths against eight cases and no deaths at this time in 1952.

The Mineral County health department is much concerned and is taking all precautions possible at this time.

Of the reported cases, 13 have been in pre-school children, ranging in age from 10 months to six years. If this present trend continues, West Virginia may experience one of the highest incidence years since polio vaccine became available. The rise in the incidence is lamentable in view of the fact that adequate supplies of vaccine are on hand in the local health department and the state hygienic laboratory to provide vaccine for children to 20 years of age and to expectant mothers. Parents are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to protect their children against the dread paralytic disease.

It is estimated that there are, in Mineral County, a total of 7,833 eligible children under the age of 20, plus expectant mothers, who may receive public agency vaccine through the local health department at its regular monthly clinic. Mineral County Health Department records show that only 2,835 of the eligible population have received the recommended three injections of Salk vaccine. Another 717 have received two of the three injections, and 476 have received only one injection.

The larger portion of this 476 are persons who fail to return for the second injection. These people are not adequately protected. Aside from those who have received polio vaccine from private physicians, there are still an estimated 3,800 Mineral County children and expectant mothers who have had no vaccine at all, hence, are totally unprotected against the paralysis of poliomyelitis.

Regular clinics for the administration of polio vaccine are conducted once each month at the Mineral County Court House in Keyser by the staff of the Mineral County Health Department. The date of the next clinic is Tuesday, August 12 from 8 to 9 a. m.

New Sweeper Arrives At Frostburg

Council Inspects Street Cleaner

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and Council members have made an inspection of the new $5,000 street sweeper which was recently purchased for the city and delivered this week.

Mayor Joseph James and Commissioners William Preston, James Kenney and William Sluss expressed satisfaction with the new apparatus and stated they hoped it would prove an asset to the community.

Street Commissioner Preston said he will work out a schedule with Street Superintendent Allan Baker as soon as possible, and have all streets of the city cleaned. After this project has been completed, Main Street will be swept twice weekly, Saturday and Monday between the hours of 5 to 7 a. m.

Preston has appealed to all motorists to have their cars off the street at this time as he does not want to have to place any formal restrictions on parking. He said he hoped all car owners would cooperate because "it is their city" and he hopes they want a clean one. Back streets, he added, will then be cleaned as deemed necessary.

The Mayor and Council pointed out that the cinder problem during the winter would be greatly alleviated with the use of the sweeper.

The sweeper has two rotating brushes in the front, one on the left side and one on the right, known as gutter brushes. They pick up dirt and throw it under a larger brush. During dry weather a spray bar will moisten the dirt and keep the dust down. The machine was purchased directly from the manufacturer.

City Is Placed On Nationwide 'Alert' Wire

Is Warning Point On NORAD System

Members of the Cumberland Fire Department received a briefing yesterday from federal and state Civil Defense officials on the equipment which puts Cumberland on NORAD's nationwide alert system.

NORAD is the North American Air Defense Command headquarters located in Colorado which coordinates all early warning facilities of the United States and Canada and issues warnings in case of an impending enemy attack.

If enemy planes were sighted heading for the United States, NORAD will issue a warning simultaneously to all cities, including Cumberland, which are on its direct wire.

Here yesterday to explain the operation of the equipment installed this week, were C. G. Harrison, radio communications officer for the Maryland Civil Defense, and Col. Paul C. Oscaney, regional warning officer for the federal branch of the defense organization.

The direct line will be tested twice daily from the Maryland CD headquarters at Pikesville and periodic surprise tests will be made to see that all operators are on the alert, Mr. Harrison said.

The installation of Cumberland on the direct NORAD wire, Col. Oscaney said, makes the city a new warning point on the nationwide system.

Messages received over the network by a monitoring set will give notice of the danger but details will be furnished by the state CD warning system.

Mr. Harrison told William G. Barger, CD director, the equipment was in excellent operating condition yesterday when it was inspected.

The NORAD alerts would be directed at one of three regions, but Cumberland and all other cities on the wire, would get the message, Fire Chief Parker said.

Chief Parker said the equipment installed here merely allows Cumberland to monitor all NORAD alarms.

Operational orders would follow from Pikesville, he added, and then be passed on to Western Maryland cities and agencies.

Conservation Area Enters State Contest

Soil Supervisors Plan Activities

The Allegany County Soil Conservation District yesterday entered the national soil conservation awards program, sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, for the second successive year, according to District Chairman Floyd Buser.

The decision was made at yesterday's meeting of the Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Members of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District will compete against other soil conservation districts in the state. Non-partisan judging committees, selected from Maryland's outstanding exponents of the soil conservation movement, will determine the state's outstanding district for the period from May 1, 1958, until April 30, 1959, on the basis of total points scored in performance of regular district duties.

Grand award for one member of the winning district governing body in each of the 50 competing units and the top cooperating farmer or rancher named by that district will be an expense-free vacation trip to the Wigwam Guest Ranch, Lithfield Park, Ariz., in November or December 1959.

At yesterday's session, the soil conservation supervisors also voted to increase the rental charge on the district's rotary cutter from 50 cents to $1.25 an hour. Those renting the cutter also will be prohibited from cutting brush of greater than one inch in diameter. It is necessary to increase the rental fee in order to pay for repairs made to the cutter and to build up a reserve for the possible future purchase of a new cutter.

Martin M. Gordon, Soil Conservation Service aide, and Charles S. Harvey, one of the supervisors, reported on the convention of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts held at Ocean City July 14, 15 and 16.

Four of the five supervisors attended yesterday's meeting along with Mr. and Gordon and Mr. Steger. Supervisors on hand were Mr. Buser, Mr. Harvey, D. T. Fuffinberger and Ernest R. Slider. The only absentee was Wilbert R. Paul.

Compensation Case Appealed

The transcript of record from the Workmen's Compensation Commission was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. Joseph E. Tipton, RFD 1, Frostburg, the claimant, has appealed the January 30 decision of R. Duncan Clark, who was a commissioner of the former State Industrial Accident Commission.

A carpenter's helper, Mr. Tipton contends that former Commissioner Clark did not grant him sufficient compensation for a severe back sprain he sustained February 22, 1956, while working on the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant construction. Mr. Clark ruled that Mr. Tipton sustained 20 per cent industrial loss of the use of his body and is entitled to $25 a week compensation from April 10, 1956, but not to exceed $2,500.

The Consolidated Engineering Company, Inc., participated in the case as Mr. Tipton's employer and the Maryland Casualty Company as the insurer.

Area Forestry Session Set For Hagerstown

Production Needs Will Be Stressed

A forestry meeting to discuss ways of stepping up production of wood and fiber to meet foreseeable increased requirements for forest products in Maryland and nationally has been called jointly by County Forestry boards in Western Maryland for 10 a.m. August 6 at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts in Hagerstown, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

Other district meetings around the state will be conducted at Ellicott City, LaPlata and Cambridge.

The Western Maryland meeting—for Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties—will be attended by forest landowners, industry representatives, state forestry officials and other interested citizens.

Discussion of Maryland's forest situation at this time is occasioned, District Forester Johnson said, by information which recently has become available from several sources as a result of factual forest inventory studies made in the state and in other states over the past several years.

These studies show current forest productivity is lagging behind current potential and will have to be accelerated to measure up to expected requirements of younger families some 20 years hence.

Maryland, because of its favorable, soil and climate is listed among the top states in forest growth potential both for quick growth of fiber for pulp or ground wood and for the long-term growth of high quality logs for lumber, veneers, furniture, poles and piling.

A survey of state conditions made in 1954 and spot checked up to date indicates that inadequate use is being made of Maryland's favorable forest growing capacity.

Commissioner James Orr observed that he had received complaints about a number of old cars having been stored near Lindy's Restaurant on Bedford Road. He said the county was opposed to the development of any more junkyards.

County School Immunization Plan Goes On

Nurses To Continue Shot Administration

Mass immunizations in the schools against certain communicable diseases will be continued virtually unchanged under recommendations adopted by the Allegany County Board of Health.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, had proposed that mass immunizations in the schools be stopped due to the lack of physicians to supervise the program which covered polio, DPT and smallpox, and was carried out by nurses alone. He wanted the program changed to a clinic basis.

Decisions made by the Board of Health include:

1. An educational program stressing the desirability of obtaining protection through immunization for children under 6, either from private physicians or at Health Department clinics, will be continued and intensified. Will Give Shots

2. All persons under 20 may obtain the protection through clinics, regardless of ability to pay.

3. Children in school who have not gone to their physicians or a clinic for the protection, will be immunized without regard to ability to pay. These shots will be given by public health nurses assigned to the schools.

As is customary, shots will not be given unless parents sign consent slips.

James Orr, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, said sudden dropping of the program would leave large numbers of children entirely unprotected.

He also said past experience shows there is no special need to have a physician on the premises. Gorman E. Getty, county attorney, concurred.

Funds needed to continue the mass approach to communicable disease, officials said, will undoubtedly be available to carry on the program which has placed Allegany County in the front ranks of counties in the protection against polio and other communicable disease.

Full Polio Protection

All students in Allegany County public and parochial schools had received full protection against polio when schools closed this June. So far as is known, no other county even attempted such a program.

Similar full protection against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and smallpox has been provided for years.

The decisions were made Thursday at a session held in the Board of Education office, attended by Mr. Orr; Mr. Getty, attorney to the county board; Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county schools and Dr. van Strien.

It was reported that Dr. van Strien reluctantly accepted the above recommendations and asked that they be put in the minutes of the Board of Health and signed as approved by the members of the board.

The three commissioners, Orr, William A. Wilson and Charles N. Wilkinson signed the statement.

Deetz, Knight and Stillwagon were advanced from seaman recruit to seaman apprentice. Lennox was promoted from seaman apprentice to seaman, and Vance advanced from seaman to hospital corpsman.

Eight Safety Rules Urged For Use Of Power Mowers

Local owners of power mowers who have noted the number of persons hurt by the machines this summer may be interested in these eight operating rules compiled by the National Safety Council:

1. Unless you have artificial light, mow only during the day-time.
2. Don't use an electric mower when the grass is wet and slippery.
3. Never allow youngsters or pets near a power mower. Nor should youngsters be allowed to operate one.
4. When starting the engine, stand with your feet planted in a safe spot. Always be sure of your footing and balance—especially when mowing on an incline. On hills and banks, cut sideways, not up and down.
5. Don't refuel the mower while it is running or still hot from use. Always refuel out of doors. Store the gasoline in an approved container.
6. Shut off the mower before moving it from one level to another, or when you want to work

Early 1958 Bond Sales Take Drop

The sale of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Allegany County for the first half of 1958 showed a drop compared to the same period last year, according to Lynn C. Lashley, chairman.

Mr. Lashley said sales from January through June amounted to $1,349,939, as compared to $1,411,552 for the same period in 1957.

For the first six months this year, Allegany County achieved 48 per cent of its yearly goal of $2,790,000 and is 12th place in sales in Maryland. The county needs $45,061 additional purchases of bonds to pass the 50 per cent mark for the full half-year period.

However, sales throughout the state were up on an average over the same period last year, with $32,120,876 in bonds purchased in the first six months of this year, as compared with $31,867,258 for the same 1957 period.

State sales of $5,189,441 for June were nearly seven per cent higher than June 1957.

In Garrett County, only 26 per cent, or $102,036, of the $380,000 quota was reached during the first six-month period.

Washington County had $1,750,234 in sales, or 54 per cent of its quota of $3,210,000, for January through June.

Library Has Edgar Hoover Book On Reds

Any reader who would like a better understanding of the Communist Party in the United States may become better informed by reading one of the new books in the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant at the library, who reviews new books at the library, reports that J. Edgar Hoover has written a clear and understandable book on our problems with the Communist Party in the United States. He works on the premise that "Communism is the major menace of our time." Much may be learned by reading "Masters of Deceit," the work of an intelligent and dedicated government official, said Miss Cain.

Among the newly added fiction, readers who are interested in vivid and colorful historical novels, will be delighted with "Pharaoh" by Eloise Jarvis McGraw. Brilliantly described, this is the story of Queen Hatshepsut who, after her husband's death, became the first female to wear the double crown of Pharaoh.

Another historical novel which has achieved outstanding success is "White Witch" by Elizabeth Goudge, recognized artist, veteran of some 22 well known books. Action and suspense predominates in this novel of England during the reign of Charles I and the wars between Royalists and Puritans.

Among the top national best sellers "North From Rome" by Helen MacInnes is intriguing. This new suspense novel concentrates on the activities of a powerful narcotics ring and the important Communists behind it.

Permits Issued For Two Dwellings

Building permits were issued yesterday by the Allegany County assessing department for two new dwellings.

Byron H. Seekamp, Poorbaugh Addition, Corriganville, was issued a permit to construct an $8,000 frame dwelling in Election District 20. The house will be 24 by 40 feet in size.

Charles F. Witt, Creek Road, obtained a permit for a $3,500 frame dwelling on Creek Road in Election District 4. It will be 32 by 40 feet in size.

Victor Jones got a permit for a foundation and tool shed costing $900 for his house on Irons Mountain in Election District 16.

City's Net Bonded Debt Is $3,092,000

Hagerstown To Sell $5,300,000 Issue

The net bonded debt of the City of Cumberland is just about equal to the expenditures made for civic expansion since World War II.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, said yesterday that the net debt is $3,092,000.

And postwar construction financed by bonds, he added, totals $3,100,000.

Here is the bonded debt picture of the City of Cumberland:

The total debt as of July 1, Mr. Gibson reported, was $9,522,000.

Funds totaling $2,158,068.23 in the Sinking Fund, set up to retire term bonds, reduce the city's total debt to the $7,363,931.77 mark.

Is Self Supporting

Of this bonded debt, $4,271,931.77 is self supporting—that is, it is being repaid from water and sewage revenues.

This leaves the net debt totaling $3,092,000 against assessed valuations of about $77,000,000. This total net debt is almost identical with the following bond issues sold since World War II.

The major postwar bond issues, totaling $2,250,000, went toward the local share of the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program which has cost another million dollars provided by Allegany County.

Other issues were a $350,000 Urban Development bond issue for the Frederick Street project, a $150,000 issue, matched by the county, for the new wing at Memorial Hospital Nurses Home, a $150,000 referendum approved recreation bond and $200,000 of street and sewer bonds issued in 1945, 1946 and 1952.

The $2,000,000 bond issue for the sewage treatment plant is in the self-supporting column.

To Sell Big Issue

The City of Hagerstown is about to add $5,500,000 of bonds to its debt.

The issue will be sold July 29 and includes $5,300,000 of bonds for the city's electric light plant and $200,000 of airport bonds.

A data sheet accompanying the announcement of the coming sale provides the Hagerstown bond picture.

Assessed valuation of Hagerstown, the report said, totals $103,268,900.

The issue will bring Hagerstown's bonded debt to $15,336,000. Deletion of the self-supporting debt (power, sewage, water) totaling $13,848,000 makes its net debt $1,488,000.

Four Schools To Be Painted

Plans are in the making for the painting of the exterior of four Allegany County public schools, according to Joseph T. Downey, supervisor of maintenance.

The County Board of Education will receive bids until 2 p. m. Friday, August 1, for the exterior painting of Midland Elementary School, Oldtown School, Central Elementary School in Lonaconing and John Humbird School.

Painting contractors may obtain detailed specifications from the Board of Education office, 108 Washington Street. The board reserves the right to reject any and/or all bids.

Good Peach Crop Is Expected

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—The Eastern Panhandle area's 1958 peach crop is expected to be better-than-average despite heavy rains in the past two weeks.

Chief fruit advisor Ed Gould said the rains were only slightly affecting the crop. He said the excess water kept the sugar from maturing in the fruit, but it was not in serious condition.

Ike Demands Broader Talks

UN To Meet To Plan For Conference

Informants Believe
Khrushchev To OK
Talks About Aug. 11

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Security Council is expected to meet next week to build the foundation for a U.N. summit meeting on the Middle East crisis. This was reported by Western sources Friday as President Eisenhower sent a note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev stressing that summit arrangements must be left to the Council.

These informants express belief Khrushchev will accept and the summit meeting can open at U.N. headquarters in New York Aug. 11. The 11-nation Council will be summoned to consider details as to participants, the place and the opening day for the meeting.

Khrushchev proposed that in addition to members of the Council, Prime Minister Nehru of India and the governments of interested Arab states be brought into the discussions.

Doesn't Specify
He did not specify the Arab governments, but a Soviet U.N. source said he believed they would be Lebanon, Jordan, and President Nasser's United Arab Republic. They are the same three Arab nations invited to take part in previous Council Middle East debate. Iraq would be present as a member of the Council.

There had been speculation that the Soviets might have in mind a conference of all Arab states. U.N. diplomats feel this would make the conference cumbersome. It might also lead to additional complications, such as a demand from Israel for participation, or from Turkey, Iran and Pakistan—members of the Baghdad Pact.

Eisenhower said he was instructing Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge to consult with other Council members on the desirability of a summit meeting.

No Opposition
The Council is expected to be called into session at the conclusion of such consultations. There has been no opposition expressed here by Council members to a summit meeting.

U.N. diplomats said the Council would make arrangements for private meetings of the big powers and possibly India. These could be held outside New York, but the most likely place appeared to be the private offices of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld on the 38th floor of the U.N. secretariat building.

The big powers would agree in advance that no voting take place. They would issue a summary in the way of a report to the full Council at the end of their deliberations. The idea is to avoid the big power veto—used by the Soviet Union on 85 previous occasions.

Fighting Flares Up In Lebanon

14 Killed In Clash With Rebels;
U.S. Forces Said Not Involved

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—The bloodiest fighting since a U. S. Marine peace force landed here nearly two weeks ago erupted Friday night between opposition and government forces. Unofficial reports said 14 persons were killed and another dozen wounded in the new violence. The incident did not in any way involve U. S. forces here, which now are 10,000 strong.

REBEL LEADER—Lebanese rebel leader Saeb Salem said yesterday rebels will not permit presidential elections as long as President Camille Chamoun is in power and foreign troops are in Lebanon. (AP Photofax)

The fighting took place within a confined area near Al Khayad Hill, the highest in the city, among closely grouped buildings. Snipers and government troops engaged in shooting duels from neighboring roofs. The hill is held by the rebels.

The battle, strangely, did not attract much notice in Beirut despite the number of casualties and the possible significance of the flare-up. The people of Beirut appear inured to the sound of firing these days.

U. S., U. N. Officials Meet

Top American and Lebanese military and civil leaders conferred for almost three hours Friday on the role of American forces in Lebanon. Shortly afterwards, United States and United Nations officials had their first formal contact in a high-level conference.

The two conferences may mean much in future decisions on the mission and duties of American forces in Lebanon. The last of these forces flew into Beirut International Airport Friday night aboard the Globemaster shuttle run from Germany via Adana, Turkey.

They brought the American land force total to 10,000, of which roughly 4,000 are Army paratroopers and support troops and 6,000 are Marines. In addition some 60 ships of the U.S. Sixth Fleet are stationed off the Lebanese coast. And an Air Force fighter-bomber composite striking force is in Adana protecting the operation's northern flank.

Coalition Government Considered

Lebanese President Camille Chamoun was reported reliably Friday night to be considering creation of a broad coalition government to end the continuing internal crisis. Diplomatic sources said Chamoun has told U.S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert D. Murphy that he wants parliament to reach agreement on one man before start of the election scheduled in the 66-member body next Thursday.

Chamoun is prepared, it was said, to disappear quietly from the scene following a satisfactory political solution. The diplomatic sources said Chamoun is counseling his zealous parliamentary followers to elect a neutral man to avoid further deepening of the schism that has split the country into two rival political camps.

Foreign Policy At Stake

AF Abandons Search For Space Mouse

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force abandoned the South Atlantic search for Wickie the space mouse Friday, but indicated the test of the experimental nose cone in which the little creature rode was a success.

After scouring the vast open seas near Ascension Island 1,000 miles off the coast of Africa for two days, the Air Force announced in a terse statement that efforts to recover the nose cone of the Thor-Able missile had been discontinued.

Wickie thus became the third mouse lost in the Thor-Able test series, designed primarily to prove the workability of an experimental nose cone design for intercontinental range ballistic missiles.

Maj. Gen. Donald Yates, commander of the missile test center here, said the mushroom-shaped nose cone was observed re-entering the earth's atmosphere after the rocket was launched Wednesday. But he said the 10 specially-equipped planes and three ships in the impact area found no trace of the rocket tip in the ocean.

Mother And Six Children Drown In Flash Flood

SPENCER, W. Va. (AP)—A mother and six children, drowned in a flash flood that swept away their home on Granny's Creek about 30 miles southeast of Spencer Thursday night.

Only the father, John Willoughby, 45, survived. Willoughby said the last he remembered was clinging to a tree after he was carried through the top of the house by the surging water.

The dead were Mrs. Ella Willoughby, 37; Wilma Lee, 9; Beulah Irene, 8; Waveline, 6; William S. Raymond, 3, and Hazel, 2.

The house was a 60-year-old frame building located at the confluence of two small mountain streams.

Camera Firm Plans Layoff

BRAUNSCHEWIG, Germany (UPI)—Frank and Heidecke Co., one of Germany's leading camera manufacturers, announced Friday that it would lay off 340 workers because of the recession in the United States.

The company, makers of the widely-known Rolleiflex cameras, said the workers would be dismissed gradually between August and October.

Salary Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed a bill increasing the salary of the district of Columbia superintendent of schools to $22,000 a year. Under previous law, the salary was set between $14,000 and $18,000.

Biggest Battle In Beirut Is Between Services

BEIRUT (UPI)—A group of U.S. Marines and paratroopers bore the scars Friday of their biggest battle to date in Lebanon—a strictly inter-service affair. The free-for-all apparently developed when a jeepload of Marines near Beirut's International Airport sounded off their opinion of the paratroopers' fighting qualities and manliness.

There was no decision, but in the words of one paratrooper: "I wouldn't say they love us now, but I think they've been converted."

Lawyer Dies From Injection

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The death of a young attorney from an injection of ragweed extraction for the treatment of hay fever was "extremely rare," Dr. Seymour Crepea, the head of Wisconsin's Medical School Allergy Clinic said Friday.

Crepea said the injections are the most common form of treatment against hay fever in use. "I don't know how many gallons of this are given out in a year, but this case is extremely rare," he added.

Dirk Janssen, 31, dropped dead in his doctor's office Thursday on an "anaphylactic shock, or exaggerated reaction," from a half cubic centimeter of the extraction.

The doctor, Meade Burke, said Janssen had been taking shots since mid-January and had showed no previous reaction.

Burke said the lawyer started coughing after the injection. "I thought he was having a reaction," the doctor said, "so I gave him a shot of adrenalin. He fell out of his chair. I called the police ambulance for oxygen and gave him a shot of aminophyllin—another stimulant. Nothing helped."

Prominent Pittsburgh Industrialist Dies

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Alan Magee Scaife, 58, prominent Pittsburgh industrialist and a leader in the city's renaissance, died Thursday in Magee Hospital of a heart ailment.

Scaife, a top man in the Mellon financial empire, had entered the hospital last Thursday for treatment, but his condition had not been believed serious. His wife Sarah Mellon Scaife, was in New York at the time of his death.

He was board chairman of Scaife Co., which was founded here by his great grandfather. He also was a director in a dozen large corporations.

Jennie Arrives

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI)—Ingrid Bergman's 19-year-old daughter Jennie Lindstrom arrived Friday aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane and drove off toward Glasgow.

Gas Explosions Stem From Wrong Pipe Hook Up

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—A "do it yourself" householder may have hooked up the wrong pipes that sent propane gas into water lines and set off blasts that sent thousands of persons fleeing from their homes, authorities said Friday.

The series of at least six explosions Thursday apparently stemmed from propane gas which seeped into water mains and blew up in nearby homes and restaurants. Four persons were injured.

Investigators said a preliminary study indicated the gas may have been forced into the wrong mains by a householder who attached a gas tank to the wrong pipe.

Four homes, a malt shop and a drive-in restaurant were destroyed or damaged by the blasts and three small fires broke out.

Johnson Hits Speed Of U.S. Defense Pace

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's majority leader said Friday that if Rome had been built at the pace the U.S. Defense Department is moving the streets would still be unpaved.

"Where are the missiles, where are the satellites, and where are the other devices?" Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) demanded of Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy at a Senate hearing. The session was held behind closed doors so that McElroy and his aides could describe a number of secret military projects they said would demonstrate that the nation's defense buildup is moving ahead.

The examples definitely represent progress, much of which is substantial," Johnson reported after the two-hour hearing before his Senate Preparedness subcommittee.

"But if Rome had been built at the same rate of speed, the streets would still be unpaved."

"The secretary and his people are doing a good job. They have strengthened the defenses of the country and no one can question their dedication."

"But I believe the committee would have a greater sense of comfort if it felt there was a greater desire not just to improve our defenses, but to catch up with the Russians, but to produce a preparedness program second to none."

"The plans are excellent. But plans are no substitute for military hardware and trained men."

"To this mixture of praise and rather extravagant criticism, defense officials had no immediate reply."

Johnson said he remained unconvinced that the Defense Department is working with the "grim sense of urgency" required by the times.

Queen Is Visited By Her Physicians

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II, who is suffering from catarrhal sinusitis, was visited at Buckingham Palace Friday by her physicians.

The three physicians have been paying regular calls since her illness developed more than two weeks ago. Thursday night they carried out a second irrigation of the affected sinus.

The Queen's temperature has been normal and her condition continues to improve, the palace reported Thursday night.

Work On Satellite

LONDON (AP)—Moscow Radio said Friday that Chinese Communist scientists are working on an artificial earth satellite.

Americans Beat Monsoons To Conquer Gasherbrum

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Two bearded Americans outraced the monsoons and planted the Stars and Stripes on 26,470-foot Mt. Gasherbrum I, the world's second-highest unconquered peak on July 4, members of the U. S. expedition reported Friday.

More than five weeks of struggling up the snow-covered giant brought the eight-man American team to the last lap of their hazardous ascent, when bad weather rolled in and pinned them down for four days. The fifth day broke cold and clear.

But, recounted Richard K. Irvin, 27-year-old high school teacher from Orosi, Calif., "We expected the monsoons to come in a few days," with their blinding rains, a total team in 1934, failed.

Note Rejects Curb On UN Conference

Security Council
To Decide Date And
Form Ground Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower served notice Friday that if the Soviet request for a summit conference on the Middle East was to be met, the conference would have to deal with the broader problems of that troubled area.

In a new note to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, the President bluntly rejected Khrushchev's suggestion that any summit conference be limited to the Soviet complaints about Anglo-American troop movements in Lebanon and Jordan.

He said the securing of peace in the Middle East requires solution of the "far broader problems" which have plagued the area.

He also told Khrushchev it was up to the United Nations Security Council to decide the date, the participants, and the ground rules to govern any meeting of chiefs of government under its auspices.

Note Handed Menshikov

The president's 1,000-word note on the subject was handed to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. It previously was shown to U.S. allies.

In making the contents of the letter available to the press, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that "of course" the President would attend a summit meeting if a satisfactory arrangement could be set up by the Security Council. It was Hagerty's first statement to that effect.

The President indirectly suggested to Khrushchev that he abandon his practice of writing highly-publicized letters and allow the ambassadors at the United Nations to make the arrangements if he sincerely wants a meeting.

The President spiked any Khrushchev hope of turning a summit conference into a one-sided propaganda forum for renewing his charges of U.S. and British "aggression" in Lebanon and Jordan.

The President did not directly refer to repeated U.S. charges that the Soviet Union and its Arab followers have engaged in a long campaign to foment strife and revolutions in small pro-Western Middle Eastern nations.

Long-Range View Stressed

But he told Khrushchev that "I would be lacking in candor if I did not make clear that to put peace and security on a more stable basis in the Middle East requires far more than merely a consideration of Lebanon and Jordan."

"These situations are but isolated manifestations of far broader problems," he said. "In my opinion, the instability of peace and security is in large measure due to the jeopardy in which small nations are placed."

If a summit meeting is held, he said, the United States will discuss (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Fallout Victims To Be Checked

RABAU, New Britain (UPI)—Three U.S. Army doctors flew here Friday to examine crew members of two Japanese coast guard vessels dusted with radioactive fallout last week from a U.S. hydrogen bomb test at Eniwetok.

In Tokyo, informed sources said the Japanese government was paving the way for a stringent protest to the United States against the incident, which occurred July 14 outside the U.S. designated nuclear danger area.

The three doctors, who were not identified, arrived from Truk in the Caroline Islands to examine five crew members of the coast guard vessels Takuyo Maru and the Satsuma Maru who were hospitalized with radiation exposure.

The coast guard in Tokyo said 37 crew members and members of Japanese scientific teams aboard the vessels had been placed under medical observation because they showed signs of radiation illness.

The captains of the two ships, which were carrying out oceanographic studies in connection with the International Geophysical Year, said they were well out of the danger zone when showered with radioactive fallout.

Slots To Remain Clicking On Potomac River

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Slot machines will continue clicking at Potomac River casinos for the rest of the summer season.

The slots were to be outlawed by a State law that went into effect June 1, but they got a new lease of life when two Circuit Court judges declared the law unconstitutional.

The Court of Appeals Friday declined to give an immediate hearing to the State's appeal from the lower court ruling, but it did advance the case to the top of its new docket.

Arguments on the constitutionality of the slot machine ban will be the first ones heard when the appellate court returns from its summer recess Sept. 16.

The State's motion for advancement of its appeal was vigorously opposed at Friday's hearing by attorneys representing operators of six piers and a converted ferry boat off the Virginia Shore of the Potomac.

The high court interrupted its summer recess to conduct the hearing at the request of the casino operators' attorneys. Ordinarily, motions for advancement are granted without a hearing.

If the State's motion had been denied, the appeal would have been placed behind those previously filed and would not have been heard until January or February.

Stedman Prescott Jr., deputy attorney general, asked for a hearing on the appeal at the earliest possible date so that "the public interest may not continue to be adversely affected by the pendency of the serious legal question involved."

He pointed out that the law concerned was a criminal statute and the lower court decision had enjoined its enforcement.

Paul J. Bailey, a Leonardtown attorney representing the casino operators, said no such urgency exists.

Judge William L. Henderson suggested that, if the lower court was wrong, the Legislature is being thwarted every hour the appeal is delayed.

Then, Bailey argued, every appeal involving constitutionality should be advanced.

Wolff Denies Meeting Adams

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A textile executive brushed off as "ridiculous" Friday a charge that Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams used improper influence to get the executive's firm a $41,284 refund from the government.

Leo Wolff, who was president of the now-defunct Rayline Worsters, Inc., of Manchester, N.H., told reporters he never had met Adams. The White House has said Adams forwarded inquiries to the Pentagon for Rayline as a matter of routine.

Wolff, relaxed and cheerful, was interviewed while waiting to testify before a House armed services subcommittee which is investigating the 1957 Army refund of a penalty against Rayline for late delivery on a 1941 cloth contract.

"I don't know anyone in Washington, not even the New Hampshire people — Bridges and who was that other one, Merrow?" Wolff told newsmen. This referred to Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) and Rep. Chester E. Merrow (R-N.H.) who also forwarded queries to the Pentagon for Rayline.

Wolff said that Adams, in forwarding an inquiry from his firm, did just what a congressman would do in similar circumstances.

"He gives you a pat on the back and says 'I'll take care of it' and then forward it to get rid of it," he said.

Note Rejects

"To do otherwise," he said, "would be to blind to the teaching of history."

Note Welcomed in London

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan already had said he is willing to attend a summit meeting. In London the British government said it "welcomes" the President's latest note on the subject and that the British "were fully consulted on its terms."

In Paris, Premier Charles de Gaulle held urgent conferences with his cabinet about whether he should attend the New York meeting. He has agreed to a summit meeting in principle, but has been reluctant to attend a session in New York.

American officials said one test of Soviet intentions would hinge on Khrushchev's reaction to the President's suggestion that he allow the regular U. N. ambassadors to make arrangements for the proposed summit meeting.

They said Khrushchev would cast doubt on his sincerity in seeking a conference of chiefs of government if he persisted in exchanging propaganda-style letters with the Western nations.

Officer Is Suspended

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Department of Parole and Probation has suspended H. Irving Miller, a parole officer on the Eastern Shore since 1947, and is considering departmental charges against him.

Sense Of Smell By Father Saves Young Girl's Life

WEST WUNION, W. Va. (UPI) — Charles Guthrie's keen sense of smell probably saved the life of his seven-year-old daughter here early Friday.

Guthrie became curious about a rubbery odor in the house. He thought it might be coming from the refrigerator. But on close inspection of his daughter's bed, he discovered that her foam rubber pillow had somehow caught fire and was melting.

The fire had already eaten its way into the bed mattress when Guthrie discovered it. The child was unharmed.

Flanagan Quits Under Fire As CSC Member

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bernard L. Flanagan of St. Albans, Vt., quit under fire Friday as an interim member of the Civil Service Commission because of what he called his "honest mistakes" on past applications for government jobs.

At Flanagan's request, President Eisenhower withdrew his nomination of Flanagan to the commission. He has been serving as a commissioner under a recess appointment for the past seven months.

The 39-year-old Flanagan, a former Capitol Hill policeman, had been sharply criticized by members of the Senate Civil Service Committee for filing misinformation in applying for earlier jobs with a variety of government agencies.

In a letter to the President, Flanagan conceded he "made some mistakes" in filling out applications for jobs with the old Office of Price Stabilization, the Veterans Administration and the General Service Administration.

He said the inaccuracies about his education, past job titles, salaries and other matters "were entirely immaterial" to the jobs held.

"But they have been seized upon and magnified out of all proportion to the question of my ability and fitness to be a civil service commissioner," he said.

Flanagan said he thought "far too much" of the Eisenhower administration "to allow myself to be used for its political harassment."

Middies Ordered To Return Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy said Friday 300 Naval Academy midshipmen, who were cruising with the 6th Fleet when the Lebanon crisis developed, will be flown back to the United States.

They will be brought home in the Marine Corps air transports used last week to take about 800 Marine replacements to Lebanon. The Navy said the midshipmen, who were scattered among many warships in the Mediterranean, are now being assembled at Suda Bay, Crete, for the homeward air lift.

Agent Is Indicted

BALTIMORE (AP) — The business agent for a ship chandler's local of the International Longshoremen's Assn. was indicted Friday on charges of embezzling $12,049.33 in union funds.

The grand jury returned the charge against John E. Harrison of Baltimore after hearing witnesses from the union and investigators from the State's attorney's office.

Fighting Flares

A rooftop sniper fired three quick shots into a Marine command post here Thursday night. An American officer said it was an attempt to create an incident by making the Marines fire back and perhaps hit some innocent person. The Marines have strict orders to hold their fire except in the direst necessity of defense.

(In Washington, a top U. S. official at the United Nations said that American troops may be withdrawn from Lebanon "quite soon" providing next week's election goes off smoothly. James J. Wadsworth, deputy U. S. representative to the U. N., told a congressional subcommittee that when the U. S. force of more than 9,000 leaves, "we will have proved that we are a people of our word.")

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The rebel leader in Beirut dealt a stiff blow Friday to rising hopes that peace might return to this troubled little Mideast nation next week.

Saeb Salam declared his rebels will not permit Parliament to name a president as long as pro-Western President Camille Chamoun is in power, and foreign troops remain in Lebanon.

Parliament is scheduled to meet next Thursday to name Chamoun's successor. Hopes had risen high that a candidate acceptable to both sides would be named, thus ending the long and bloody uprising.

"The Lebanese revolution will not permit the holding of a presidential election in the shadow of tanks, planes and fleets of foreign troops," Salam told correspondents.

Stock Market Surges Up In Active Trade Session

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market surged to new highs in a 4,430,000-share session that featured liquor shares, building stocks, chemicals, rails, and selected issues in the papers, aircrafts, steels and motors.

The Dow-Jones industrial stock average broke through the 500 mark for the first time since last August, climbing 4.64 to 501.76, its highest level since Aug. 2.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index showed a gain of 0.32 to 46.97, indicating a rise of better than $1.5 billion in the value of all listed shares.

Best gain of the day came late in the session when Du Pont ran up 4 1/2 to 195 1/2. In the same group Stauffer was 2 higher, Dow up over a point.

Trading was at a fast pace from the outset with tickers running late briefly after the opening and again at the close. Volume, comparing with 3,740,000 shares Thursday, was the heaviest since last Dec. 31.

American Motors, the big feature in Thursday's late rally, again topped the list on volume with turnover of 179,000 shares. It touched a high of 15 1/4 and finished at 14 1/4. Chrysler, Ford and General Motors added major fractions.

Schenley responded to a Senate Finance Committee vote to lengthen the tax-free liquor bonding period from 8 to 20 years, with current as well as future stocks to be included. It ran up 3 points to 23 on blocks ranging to 22,000 shares and held 2 1/2 of the rise, finishing second to American Motors with 103,800-share volume.

Other liquors—American Distilling, Publix, Standard Brands, National Distillers—moved up with Schenley although for some of them the decision to include existing stocks in the lengthened period was considered unfavorable since Schenley is said to have a large portion of aged stocks.

Building stocks were given a whirl, with gains of a point or more in Ideal Cement, Alpha Portland, Penn Dixie and improvement of more than 2 points in Bestwall Gypsum and Minneapolis Honeywell.

Rail gains ranged past 2 points in Kansas City Southern, a point or so in Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific.

Steels were firm with U. S. Steel up nearly a point and Eastern Steel, a specialty, up over 2. International Paper rose over 2. International Paper rose over 2. Crown Zellerbach nearly 2. In aircrafts, Douglas, United and Chance-Vought were up around a point, with the last responding to good earnings. De Villiers rose 2. Gerber 3 1/2, Smith, Kline & French 3 1/4, American Home Products 2 1/2, Mesta Machine 2 1/4, Consolidated Coal 1 1/4.

Peabody Coal, with an 80,000 share block in the late dealings, was third most active issue, up 1/2 at 12 1/2. Fruehauf Trailer, Rubber, Hupp, U. S. Hoffman, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, National Distillers, Western Union were active also. All were higher.

Of a total 1,230 issues traded, 701 were higher, with 222 setting new highs; 296 lower, with 5 at new lows.

Canal Bill Remains A Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Geracie Pfost (D-Idaho) said yesterday the fate of the C & O canal parkway bill may rest on how long Congress stays in session.

"If we're going to be here a while—say beyond mid-August—I would think we could act upon it," said the chairman of the House public lands subcommittee.

The bill would designate the 185-mile canal area, extending from Washington to Cumberland, Md., as a national park and authorize construction of a parkway. Costs of land acquisition and improvements are estimated at $15 million in the first five years.

Discussing the time element, Mrs. Pfost said scheduling of further sessions of her subcommittee has been complicated by plans of the full committee to meet daily to complete consideration of the Hawaii statehood bill.

Still to be heard in connection with the canal bill, she said, are witnesses from the Army Engineers and the District of Columbia water department concerning plans for future domestic and industrial water demands of the District. Remaining also, she said, is questioning of Conrad Wirth, park service director, who testified briefly at an earlier session.

Mrs. Pfost denied reports that she was opposed to the bill. Saying she was "at heart a conservationist," she added that she nevertheless felt consideration should be given to the possible effect the bill would have on Washington's future water needs as well as other factors involved.

"I still have an open mind—I'm not against the bill," she said.

Allegany Farm Bureau Begins Membership Drive

A membership drive was launched and the Farm Queen contest discussed by Carol Leatherman Jr., Baltimore, membership field man, at the meeting of the board of directors of the Allegany County Farm Bureau, held Thursday evening at the Court House.

Vernon Loar presided and appointed Mrs. Marshall Porter publicity chairman. Mrs. Edgar Matthews was selected to represent Allegany County as a judge for the Garrett County Farm Queen contest, to be held August 12 at McHenry.

The membership drive will be held during August. Committees are to report on the drive at the meeting August 28 at 8 p. m., after which refreshments will be served the workers. Special guests and past officers will be invited to attend. It also was decided to invite all interested farmers who are members of the Farm Bureau to meetings which will be held the fourth Thursday of each month. Robert Heavner reported approximately 50 members are enrolled.

Mr. Leatherman explained that a Farm Queen contestant must be a resident of Maryland, to enter the state contest. He also spoke of the central location of the state office building on Route 26 at Randallstown.

Discussing the price of milk, it was pointed out that feed prices are up and milk down; increased services are required by the rapidly growing population, including greatly expanded school program, the Farm Bureau reiterated its stand that "no increase in levies be made on farm property or other real estate, which now is heavily taxed."

Others present were Ivan Wilson, Midland; Robert Porter, Eckhart; W. H. Johnson, city; George Clingerman, Flintstone; Joseph Stafford, Williams Road; and Joseph Steger, county agent.

Cave-Kave History Outlined

Leo Cave of Luke was elected general chairman of the Cave-Kave Clan at the first reunion held Sunday at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Kave, Largent, W. Va. It was decided to hold another get-together July 19, 1959 at the same camp.

District chairmen will be Mrs. William Malcolm of the Paw Paw area; Paul Malcolm, Fort Ashby; Mrs. Ruth Moreland, Charles town; Mrs. John D. Rankin, Washington; Jesse Cave, Winchester, Va.; Mrs. Paul Oates, Romney; Leo Cave, Luke; Mrs. Clifford D. Smith, Thomas Cave, Luray; and Jesse Kave, Cumberland.

James J. Kave traced the history of the family to the original Cave in England in 1559. Thomas Cave reported that Isaac Cave of Luray, from whom the family descended, was a blacksmith and was brought to Cumberland to make the chisels to cut the stones for First Presbyterian Church, Washington Street. While here he lived on Emily Street. During the Civil War he was commissioned to do the blacksmith work for the Confederate Army at Luray.

Recognition was paid to Thomas Cave, 69, of Luray, as the oldest member present. A cafeteria style basket picnic was held at noon. Dock Painter, Luray, son-in-law of Dan Cave, son of Isaac, gave the invocation.

One hundred twenty-three members of the clan attended, representing the 13 children of old Isaac. Of these there were three families with 100 per cent attendance, from four or five states. The family of the late Ashby Kave, Neals Run, W. Va., son of Isaac, had the largest attendance with 41 present; next largest was the family of Andrew Cave of Luke with 39. Robert Bruce Cave, Luke, son of Bruce, returned from service in Germany July 15 and attended the reunion before reporting at Fort Sill, Okla. Gardner Cave, Winchester, Va., US-AFR, who was unable to attend, flew over the camp and dipped his wing in salute.

Games, boating, horseshoe pitching, badminton and swimming featured the entertainment.

The Jewell family reunion will be held tomorrow at Lost River State Park.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Matthew	16	13-20
Monday	Matthew	18	15-20
Tuesday	Acts	2	41-47
Wednesday	Acts	6	1-6
Thursday	Acts	20	17-35
Friday	1 Corinthians	10	23-35
Saturday	1 Corinthians	9	19-23

Folks are curious. "What is it for . . . What does it do?" They usually want to know about everything they come across.

But ask them, "What's the Church for . . . What does it do?" and they're likely to stop short.

You can tell them the Church is the oldest institution in your community. It stands for God, for right-living, and for the way of Christ.

Its aim is to help develop Christian character . . . to share a soul-lifting gospel with each person.

It strengthens the community's ceaseless struggle against crime . . . it serves families and individuals in times of trouble, sorrow, or sickness. It rejoices with them in their happiness.

Once you're aware of the Church's far-reaching program, its challenge is irresistible.

Accept it . . . take your stand for God, for right-living, and for the way of Christ through the Church.

Nothing Like A Cop On The Beat

The U. S. serviceman is becoming the shield of the free world. His presence—even if on a token basis—is a visible notice to would-be aggressors of "Thus far, no farther."

This is true despite the fact that U. S. bombers flying over many lands on the perimeter of the communist world have been a constant reminder of this country's determination.

There is nothing like having a man on the scene, a "cop on the beat."

This is one reason, of course, why the nations of Western Europe have been so eager to have U. S. servicemen actually stationed on their territory. That way they could be assured that if trouble started this nation would have no alternative but to be involved.

Now U. S. servicemen are being stationed in far less friendly situations and under the most uncertain of circumstances.

But, after all, the British had a thin line of defenders around the globe to preserve the peace of the world for generations. And to go back in history much farther, it was a shield of Roman legions on the borders of the empire of Rome which kept the barbarians at bay.

The United States has been a nation with intentions and attitudes so peaceful as to be almost pacifist. For that reason it has seldom honored the men and officers of its armed forces. Indeed, Americans have had a latent distrust of them.

But in a time when Americans are realizing to their sorrow that force often is the only answer in this imperfect world, they realize their debt to these men. Their hopes go with them as they man the thin outpost line on the rim of the free world.

Mr. Goldfine

The record is in and one may now sit in judgment on the friendship of Mr. Goldfine and Sherman Adams. The record is incomplete, if Goldfine's defense has been inadequate, it is entirely his fault and that of his lawyers and his publicity men. They had their opportunity to state their case.

First, as to Sherman Adams, all that was proved beyond doubt is that he accepted $4,000 to $5,000 of gifts from a personal friend, Goldfine, over a period of years and that he returned gifts to Goldfine, each according to what he could afford. Gifts of this sort are not unusual, but the essential question is not the gifts but whether Adams used his enormous influence to aid Goldfine in his business. This has not been firmly established.

As for Goldfine, he presented a poor picture of a small businessman, operating principally by marginal arrangements and by influence. He gave a great many gifts to a variety of persons, from the President of the United States down to the office boys and girls of "important people." He regards that as noble of himself because he is sharing his blessings.

However, in the list which the Congressional committee published, the names of those who got Christmas presents were always employed in offices of those who could help Goldfine.

I do not know the man or his affairs, but I think I know the type. Were I his lawyer or his publicity man, I would have provided a list of all the gifts he gave to individuals and to charities over the years. It would have been discovered that giving with such a man is not only a habit but a preoccupation; that its purpose is as much to show that he has it to give as to assist the needy. The Biblical word, Heseid, is a difficult one to translate into English because, in its depth, it contains the full meaning of sharing one's blessings with others, and whether Goldfine was conscious of it or not, his environment was such that the mark of success, the proof of success is to give gifts.

In fact, in the environment from which Mr. Goldfine emanates, it is not unusual for the collector for a charity to demand more than is given on the ground that the earnings for the year were very large. This goes back to the ancient system of tithing. I read such a letter once, the most impudent letter I have ever seen from one man to another. Nevertheless, it was characteristic of the abuse of giving.

As one read Goldfine's testimony, it was obvious that he was acting the wise-guy who was trying to trick everybody in the room, including his own counsel. This again is a form of ostentation as is his use of the term, "Mr. Goldfine," referring to himself.

The business of uncashed "treasurer's checks" should not have been difficult to explain. Since 1941, Goldfine has apparently been withdrawing funds from his own accounts and from his various businesses in the form of "certified checks" and "bank treasurer's checks," which have the same value as cash money and most of which have never been cashed. These checks had to be made out to someone or the banks would not have issued them. They stand on the banks' books as a liability and have undoubtedly been called to the banks' attention annually by the state bank examiners and the Federal Reserve System bank examiners. Reserves had to be set up to meet them.

Competent Congressional committee investigators ought to be able to get at all the facts of these checks if they are pertinent to this particular investigation. Congressional committees with limited appropriations often try to save money by getting the story out of the witness without adequate investigation or research. It is not a good method.

'It Didn't Work Out The Way I Figured'

Where We Stand Now: No Mid-East Policy

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

This is a moment when it is important to know just where we stand now; and for this purpose, it is essential to note the great gap at the very center of the picture. We have troops in Lebanon. The British have troops in Jordan. But the United States and Britain do not have a Middle Eastern policy.

This is the only way to sum up the unhappy results of widespread inquiry in authoritative quarters. You cannot get an answer to the question: "Where do we go from here?" or rather, you only get vaguely mumbled prayers that somehow or other, someday or other, the combination of the Marines and special Ambassador Robert Murphy will achieve a political compromise in Beirut.

A good many people seem to believe that this is a workable Middle Eastern policy, fit to compete with the cruelly shrewd, arrogantly bold policy of Nikita Khrushchev. But this widespread belief is only a testimonial to the Administration's success in blurring or concealing all the facts that count.

It is hard to believe that President Eisenhower purposely misled the Congressional leaders, at the July 14 meeting when he first revealed his intention to send troops into Lebanon. A President who leaves the entire, day-to-day task of policy-making to his Secretary of State can quite easily misconceive the choice he has to make, when he must suddenly make a very hard choice with great speed. At any rate, the misrepresentation of the Middle Eastern situation was begun by the President himself, at this first moment of disclosure.

Three different kinds of false impression were conveyed to the Congressional leaders. The President first of all said that he had received an "ultimatum" from President Chamoun, threatening the effective abdication of the Lebanese government if the Marines were not sent "within 48 hours."

In reality, President Eisenhower had long since promised President Chamoun to send troops to Lebanon, if the Lebanese government desired him to do so. Now Chamoun had simply requested Eisenhower to keep his freely given promise. He had also warned that the seismic shock of the coup d'etat in Baghdad would quickly destroy the government in Beirut, unless the American promise were quickly kept. Being on the naked brink of immediate defeat, he had asked for the American answer within two days. This was the Chamoun "ultimatum."

Secondly, both the President and Secretary of State briskly threw Allen Dulles to the wolves,

by intimating that they had been taken by surprise by the coup in Iraq. Hence the Senate is now busily investigating the C. I. A. But in reality the President and Secretary of State had long been warned that indecision about Lebanon would lead to a coup in Iraq. The warnings had come, not only from the C. I. A., but also from the murdered Iraqi leader, Nuri Pasha, from the governments of Pakistan, Iran and Turkey, and from many other sources. All the C. I. A. failed to do was to say: "On this particular day, in this particular regiment, a military coup will be organized." This was the extent of the "surprise," and this much "surprise" all governments must expect.

Finally, and perhaps worst of all, the President also indicated to the Congressional leaders that the American problem centered in Lebanon, rather than in Iraq. It was true, of course, that he had to make an immediate choice between keeping his promise to Chamoun or dishonoring this country's word. That was the first part of the problem, which could only be solved as it was solved.

But the heart of the problem lay, and it still lies in Baghdad rather than in Beirut. The British and American governments jointly decided not to attack the heart of the problem in Baghdad. The consequences of this decision must be faced, therefore, before the two governments can fill the great gap in the center of the picture, which is their present lack of any real Middle Eastern policy.

The first consequence concerns Lebanon and Jordan. No matter what compromise is reached in Beirut (and a successful compromise seems unlikely) it can only afford a pretext for the withdrawal of our troops. After Nasser's triumph in Iraq, no government in Lebanon can survive his pressure, once the Marines go out. By the same token, King Hussein cannot survive in Jordan, if the British paratroops depart. And Saudi Arabia and the Gulf Coast oil-sheikhdoms are also sitting birds for the next conspiracy Nasser chooses to hatch.

In these circumstances, only three courses of action deserve the name of a Middle Eastern policy. We can defy Khrushchev and deal sternly with Nasser himself. Or we can defy world opinion, and get ready to hang on to our toenails to the oil in the fairly easily defensible Persian Gulf area. Or we can take the bold and painful measures inside the Western alliance, which may protect the West against the worst effects of Nasser-nationalism's onward march. Those are the choices. Take your pick.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Remember when Fields jumped up at dinner and yelled, "We've forgotten to close the office safe?" Weber answered, "Whatta you worrying about? We're both here."

Both Weber and Fields knew the secret of success was to keep the other fellow from going into business for himself.

Some inventive Pasteur sterilized that employe-employer bracket when he put the bell on the cash register. And the higher they go the more you see the patches on their pants.

Ike couldn't stop one of his executive stooges from doing some light house-keeping under the counter.

But Ike had it good compared to General Grant who was rooked by his own brother-in-law, his Vice President and others too important to be numerous.

The New Suntan Pills And Standard Lotions

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Sunlight consists fundamentally of three groups of rays: visible, ultraviolet, and infra-red. Each has its own wave lengths and specific actions on the tissues of the body.

If it is too hot this summer, blame the heat producing infra-red rays. The ultraviolet are trickier. Moderate exposure leads to tanning and converts certain chemicals in the skin into vitamin D. Too much boomerangs. Sunburn is the immediate penalty of over-exposure whereas surface cancers and weather-beaten skin are in store for men and women who have had years and years of exposure.

Numerous attempts have been made to temper the effects of ultraviolet on the skin. Red heads and persons with fair skins, for example, may be so sensitive they cannot go out of doors unprotected without burning. Suntan lotions help but these products are misnamed because they do not contain chemicals that promote a tan. They filter out a certain percentage of the ultraviolet rays and thereby encourage tanning without burning.

I have been writing for several years on the use of pills and capsules that create a chemical barrier in the skin to screen out light rays. These built-in filters have been largely experimental but are coming on the market as prescription products.

The psoralens (8-MOP) encourage a natural tan after brief periods of exposure to the sun. They are best suited for fair and tender skins that burn at the drop of a hat. They stimulate the cells of the skin to produce pigment (melanin), which is responsible for tanning. The story is told of a model who could not accept more lucrative positions down south because her skin burned so readily. She took 8-MOP, built up a tan, and now is able to pose in the sun without burning.

The anti-malarial remedies—Atabrine, Aralen, and Plaquenil—are capable of creating a related barrier in the skin. The plan is more satisfactory for persons who are allergic to the rays of the sun or have skin conditions aggravated by ultraviolet. The chemicals are deposited in the skin, where they alter the rays to such an extent they no longer have a toxic effect on the tissues.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Corf

Most men who love the water work up from the flat-bottom rowboat to their youth to the best they can afford when they reach the prime of life—a big sailboat, a motorboat, sometimes even a yacht. Rotund actor Walter Slezak has played it in reverse. At one time he had a trim schooner on which eight persons could bunk and eat in solid comfort. No more! Today he sails a tiny craft with one outboard motor—just room enough for himself when he hasn't eaten too much dinner.

"This is what I always wanted," exults Slezak. "If you own a big boat, you just end up being a maid, butler and chauffeur for a lot of demanding, unappreciative guests. They have the fun; you do the work. Small boats weren't meant to sleep in, anyhow. And as for fish, I now can buy exactly what I want at Willy's Fish Market in Larchmont. It's already cleaned, too!"

Heard about the two corpses? They loved in vein.

Politics In Texas Now Hotter Than Near-War In Lebanon

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—There may be near war in the Near East. There may be a summit conference in the offing. There may be a new assistant president in prospect to replace Sherman Adams. All these may be important. But today there's an election in the biggest state-at-present in the union, and some of the races are interesting, not merely to Texans, but to the nation. Here are some of them:

Henry Gonzalez—first Mexican-American ever to run for governor of Texas—is so proud of his Mexican ancestry that he spells his name with two z's instead of one. His father is editor of the Spanish paper La Prensa in San Antonio. Henry is a Texas State senator who chalked up a record for filibustering on immigration. His race is significant, not because he'll win, but because of the growing Mexican-Negro bloc in Texas. The Mexican population of Texas is approximately one-million-and-a-half; the Negro population one million. A lot of them have not registered in the past, but this year there will be an extra effort to vote.

"Some people say I haven't a Chinaman's chance," said Gonzalez in Houston the other day. "I don't want a Chinaman's chance. All I want is a Mexican's chance."

Running against Gonzalez are Gov. Price Daniel for a second term, and that old perennial flour salesman, ex-Senator "Pass-The-Biscuits, Pappy" O'Daniel. Gonzalez is putting up such a race that he may come out ahead of O'Daniel and possibly force Governor Daniel into a run-off. Daniel, however, will win in the end.

William Blakely—a millionaire businessman dressed in chaps and sombrero—but forgetting to take off his French cuffs, is spending more money to get elected to the Senate than William Vare once did in Pennsylvania. Blakely has plenty of it to spend. He owns a lot of oil, a good slice of Braniff Air Lines, and a large piece of downtown Dallas, is listed by Fortune Magazine as one of the 75 wealthiest men in America. Blakely has so much TV time at his disposal that during one show from the Rice Hotel in Houston he ran out of things to say and had to spend the last seven minutes shaking hands. There weren't enough well-wishers on hand, however, and some of them had to act as repeaters.

Blakely is in the happy position of not worrying about the Near East, a summit conference, or the depression. He is worried about two things—labor and Negroes. When he served briefly in the Senate he did worry about one government agency—the Federal Trade Commission. In this he had something in common with Bernard Goldfine.

When Edward Tait came before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee for confirmation, Blakely then a 90-day Senator, proceeded to heckle him unmercifully. Usually a new Senator, especially one serving only a three-month term, doesn't butt into a confirmation hearing. He lets his seniors ask the questions. But the interim Senator from Texas proceeded to ask Tait all sorts of questions about the Trade Commission's right to supervise insurance companies and decide whether their advertising was deceptive.

Finally Senate colleagues got the pitch. They learned that one of Bill Blakely's insurance companies, Girardian Insurance, had been cited by the Trade Commission for false and deceptive advertising. Furthermore, the Senator himself had been cited by the FTC.

Blakely now wants to come back to the Senate, is running against Sen. Ralph Yarborough who has little TV money to spend but is visiting almost every town and city in Texas.

Note—One group of Texans who are turning thumbs down on Blakely are the farmers. Blakely's Braniff Air Lines, of which he owns 517,000 shares, has received $10,746,000 in government subsidies during the past six years. Blakely's dividends during that period are estimated at around $667,000. Simultaneously he opposes price support subsidies for farmers.

Barefoot Sanders—Texas will probably send a Barefoot Congressman to Washington to replace the one Texas Republican now in Congress. There's a scramble for this one Republican seat.

When a labor leader, Grover Cantrell, registered to oppose GOP Congressman Bruce Alger in the Republican primary for this seat, the Republican state committee promptly raised the filing fee from $100 to $2,250. They figured this would prevent a labor leader from filing. Cantrell, however, dug down in his pocket, passed the hat among some of his friends, and filed the $2,250.

Actually he doesn't expect to defeat Alger for the Republican nomination. All he wants is to make Republicans vote in the Republican primary instead of voting in the Democratic primary as they usually do. This gives them a chance to nominate a Republican on the Democratic ticket and a real Republican on the Republican ticket.

But this time neither will happen. Wealthy, conservative Dallas seems certain to elect a Democrat, Barefoot Sanders. Dallas has been sending handsome, rich Republican Bruce Alger to Washington in the past, but this year it's sure to send Barefoot Sanders. That, incidentally, is his genuine name. It's not a nickname. Barefoot, by the way, wears shoes.

The Clearance

By Brother Barnabas

Why don't you look where you are going?

Why don't you go where you're looking?

It's at a clearance sale one hears such colloquy—as customers jam the aisles rushing like mad from counter to counter, from handkerchiefs to haberdashery, from linens to leather goods, from books to blouses.

Here and there and everywhere are clumps of women shoppers pawing heaps of feminine apparel that has been slow to move during the season or imported from the mills for the occasion, in the hope of finding a prize.

The doors have been open since ten o'clock in the morning of the last day of the month—since then the metropolitan population has been stampeding every entrance, crowding the aisles, the escalators and the elevators.

Patrons come singly, in pairs as husband and wife or in family formation when children couple hands lest they get lost in the shuffle.

Running The Gauntlet

"Greatly reduced" is a familiar placard and one becomes "greatly reduced in purse and poundage by the time he runs the gauntlet of all the obstructions that impede his progress.

In the general melee one may expect to be bumped or jabbed with an umbrella, in which case he will look daggers or say "I'm sorry," according to his degree of culture and refinement.

A Sad Accident

One man had the rib of a lady's parasol jabbed into his right eye. She begged his pardon politely. He said, "Don't mention it, please, I have another."

A modern department store at full shopping tide is a huge panorama for the study of psychology.

The man who said "The world is so full of a number of things, I think we all should be happy as kings" would have revised his philosophy had he lived in this age.

First, kings occupy a precarious position in our world.

Furthermore, things don't make people happy. "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesses," declares Holy Writ.

"Give me neither poverty nor riches, but such things as are convenient" are the words of a wise man.

People in their unwisdom buy things that are more harmful than beneficial.

God's gifts are not what men want, but what they need.

Your six-year-old boy may want a gun. He doesn't need it.

An Ancient Militarist

Alexander the Great conquered the known world, and cried for more worlds to conquer.

The farmer said all the land he wanted to annex was what was next to his own. This is communism. The foolish man of the Bible had no barn big enough to hold the season's crop. So he would build bigger bins, supposing that world possessions are more important than folks.

What's the sense in owning 20 suits and 40 pairs of shoes when one of each will suffice if thereby your neighbor is made a nudist or your sister wears toothpick heels?

What boots it if your larder is stocked with more food than you can possibly consume while Lazarus picks up the crumbs at Dives' table? (Luke 16:19-20).

This column is written between stops, but there is time to record a few vagrant impressions in passing.

I note that if we can't find what we need in a clearance sale, we must have extravagant tastes. There is something there for matron and maid, for the child and for the parent, for the bookworm and the electrician, for the sweetheart and for the bride, and if he is a bachelor looking for a wife, he may find her in the person of one of the salesladies, so yearning and obliging.

Observe that there is scant provision for rest and solitude which mankind stands in sore need of.

There are few spots where one can rest his tired dogs and they are always occupied.

Pity the tired folks behind the counter who must stand long hours and keep a winsome smile for the most exacting purchaser.

Finally, there should be in everyone's life an unloading of shelf-worn practices, an eradication of impure habits or wrong desires for the sake of the life that now is and that which is yet to come when man to man the world around shall brothers be—for a that and a that. So says, BROTHER BARNABAS

Governor Says State Needs National Guard

Voices Disfavor Of Federal Plan For Reduction

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—Reorganization of West Virginia's National Guard must include places for substantially all officers and men currently assigned or it will not win approval of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

That was the essence of remarks made by the governor to the opening session of the state American Legion convention here Friday.

Referring to a recent announcement by the Defense Department which calls for the reorganization of Guard units in all states, Underwood noted it would reduce the total of company - size units in West Virginia from 41 to 28.

"This reduction is so drastic as to make it virtually impossible to redistribute the units throughout the state in a manner which will enable the guard to perform its mission in the event of an emergency," he said.

A counter proposal to that of the Defense Department was drawn up last week by the National Adjutants General Assn. The governor said it called for 32 units in West Virginia and would allow every city now supporting a Guard unit to retain at least one.

"I shall not approve any reorganization unless it provides sufficient strength to place a National Guard unit in every community in this state which now supports one," he said.

The governor must give formal approval to any reduction in National Guard strength in West Virginia. This is also true in other states.

Underwood presented an award to retiring Legion Commander W. Dewey Mentz of Welch from the governor's committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped for his service to the group.

Maplehurst Group Preparing For Western Hoe Down

Members of Maplehurst Country Club are shown preparing for the "Western Hoe Down" to be held in the barn on the club grounds this evening. The entire motif of the dance will be the West and Southwest with the orchestra playing from a large wagon. Square dancing, decorations in the Western style, Western dress and the illumination idea which originated in Old Mexico, will be featured. The group placed two to three inches of sand in the bottom of paper bags. In the center of the sand

a candle is set. When lit the bag gives off a soft glow and there is practically no fire hazard. Over 400 lights were made and will be placed at 10-foot intervals along the 1/2 mile road leading from the entrance to the barn. Left to right, kneeling and sitting, are Howie Woods, Brock Jenkins, Mrs. Jonathan Jenkins, Mrs. Nick Harris and Mrs. Hila Hines. ## Two Bedford County Girls Plan Hamid Production

BEDFORD, Pa. — Two Bedford County, Pa., girls will find themselves and their talents thrust into the limelight August 5 when the George Hamid production of "Satellite Spectacular" opens for a five-day run at the Bedford County Fair August 4-9.

The girls are Jill Eichelberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eichelberger of Bedford, and Sally Hoffman Lee, formerly of Bedford and now of Clearfield. Clearfield July 28. It was Miss Eichelberger who first heard the composition by Sally Lee entitled "Star Showers," and she brought the music and lyrics to the attention of Hamid who found them ideal for the second scene of his production. The girls are now attending rehearsals and will travel with the show at times as it moves through Pennsylvania, the New England states and Canada.

The show itself tells the story of a trip to a planet "Voluptua." Included are four dance routines performed by the Manhattan Rockets and a grand finale. Tuesday complete the sequence, and she designed for him the "Satellite Spectacular," which began rehearsals last week in Trenton, N. J. The show will premiere in

W.Va. Democrat Chairman Says GOP Is Failing

Claims His Party Must Rescue State

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia Democratic Chairman Hulet C. Smith said Friday night that the state is "in trouble" because of high unemployment and the Democratic Party "must come to the rescue."

Addressing a Young Democratic workshop meeting, Smith said "we must create jobs for the jobless, but in reaching this decision we cannot react to it as the Republicans have done during the 18 months they have occupied the statehouse."

Smith said Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and other Republican leaders "apparently believe that reckless economy claims are salvage which heals all public wounds, and when economies don't exist they manufacture them."

"Republican 'economy' is a many-splendored thing — but only on paper," Smith said.

"Against this dreary backdrop of Republican tub - thumping, inaction and inaction, we have serious problems that must be solved. And since the Underwood administration appears neither by temperament nor spirit to be fitted to the task, the Democratic party must come to the rescue of West Virginia — as it did in 1933."

"There has been too much talk already," Smith asserted. "What we need now are solutions to our problems, and a program for the future."

Garrett Fair Premium Book Is Released

OAKLAND — Garrett County Fair premium books are now available. These books can be obtained from department superintendents, the fair manager, or the county agents' office.

According to James McHenry now is the time to start planning exhibits. The Garrett County Fair offers an opportunity for farm families to exhibit articles which represent the best of their produce. Exhibitors should remember that an exhibit is representative of the best they have and is offered in free competition with exhibits from their neighbors.

Points to consider in selecting exhibits for the Fair are truthfulness of type or variety, uniformity, freedom from blemish or faulty craftsmanship, and standards of quality.

Many people only consider one department when exhibiting at the Fair, McHenry said, however, the Fair offers an opportunity for exhibition of all phases of farm and home products. County Agent McHenry suggests that the family sit down around the supper table with their premium book and plan all the exhibits their family could make at the Fair.

Fair dates are August 11 through 16.

Increase Reported In Polio As Many Fail To Get Shots

KEYSER — West Virginia health authorities are expressing concern over the apparent increase of poliomyelitis cases in the state now as compared to the incidence of the disease last year. As of July 18, 1958, 22 cases have been reported with two deaths against eight cases and no deaths at this time in 1957.

The Mineral County health department is much concerned and is taking all precautions possible at this time.

Of the reported cases, 13 have been in pre-school children, ranging in age from 10 months to six years. If this present trend continues, West Virginia may experience one of the highest incidence years since polio vaccine became available. The rise in the incidence is lamentable in view of the fact that adequate supplies of vaccine are on hand in the local health department and the state hygienic laboratory to provide vaccine for children to 20 years of age and to expectant mothers. Parents are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to protect their children against the dread paralytic disease.

It is estimated that there are, in Mineral County, a total of 7,853 eligible children under the age of 20, plus expectant mothers, who may receive public agency vaccine through the local health department at its regular monthly clinic. Mineral County Health Department records show that only 2,835 of the eligible population have received the recommended three injections of Salk vaccine. Another 717 have received two of the three injections, and 476 have received only one injection.

The larger portion of this 476 are persons who fail to return for the second injection. These people are not adequately protected. Aside from those who have received polio vaccine from private physicians, there are still an estimated 3,800 Mineral County children and expectant mothers who have had no vaccine at all, hence, are totally unprotected against the paralysis of poliomyelitis.

Regular clinics for the administration of polio vaccine are conducted once each month at the Mineral County Court House in Keyser by the staff of the Mineral County Health Department. The date of the next clinic is Tuesday, August 12 from 8 to 9 a. m.

New Sweeper Arrives At Frostburg

Council Inspects Street Cleaner

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and Council members have made an inspection of the new $5,000 street sweeper which was recently purchased for the city and delivered this week.

Mayor Joseph James and Commissioners William Preston James Kenney and William Slus expressed satisfaction with the new apparatus and stated they hoped it would prove an asset to the community.

Street Commissioner Preston said he will work out a schedule with Street Superintendent Allan Baker as soon as possible, and have all streets of the city cleaned. After this project has been completed, Main Street will be swept twice weekly, Saturday and Monday between the hours of 5 to 7 a. m.

Preston has appealed to all motorists to have their cars off the street at this time as he does not want to have to place any formal restrictions on parking. He said he hoped all car owners would cooperate because "it is their city" and he hopes they want a clean one. Back streets, he added, will then be cleaned as deemed necessary.

The Mayor and Council pointed out that the cinder problem during the winter would be greatly alleviated with the use of the sweeper.

The sweeper has two rotating brushes in the front, one on the left side and one on the right, known as gutter brushes. They pick up dirt and throw it under a large brush. During dry weather a spray bar will moisten the dirt and keep the dust down. The machine was purchased directly from the manufacturer.

The last week of the 12-day period begins today. Because of the heavy registration for camp, the final 12 days were split into two sections. As a result some girls will camp the entire period while others will spend but one week at the site.

City Is Placed On Nationwide 'Alert' Wire

Is Warning Point On NORAD System

Members of the Cumberland Fire Department received a briefing yesterday from federal and state Civil Defense officials on the equipment which puts Cumberland on NORAD's nationwide alert system.

NORAD is the North American Air Defense Command headquarters located in Colorado which coordinates all early warning facilities of the United States and Canada and issues warnings in case of an impending enemy attack.

If enemy planes were sighted heading for the United States, NORAD will issue a warning simultaneously to all cities, including Cumberland, which are on its direct wire.

Here yesterday to explain the operation of the equipment installed this week, were C. G. Harrison, radio communications officer for the Maryland Civil Defense, and Col. Paul C. Oscanyon, regional warning officer for the federal branch of the defense organization.

The direct line will be tested twice daily from the Maryland CD headquarters at Pikesville and periodic surprise tests will be made to see that all operators are on the alert, Mr. Harrison said.

The installation of Cumberland on the direct NORAD wire, Col. Oscanyon said, makes the city a new warning point on the nationwide system.

Messages received over the network by a monitoring set will give notice of the danger but details will be furnished by the state CD warning system.

Mr. Harrison told William G. Barger, CD director, the equipment was in excellent operating condition yesterday when it was inspected.

The NORAD alerts would be directed at one of three regions, but Cumberland and all other cities on the wire, would get the message, Fire Chief Parker said.

Chief Parker said the equipment installed here merely allows Cumberland to monitor all NORAD alarms.

Operational orders would follow from Pikesville, he added, and then be passed on to Western Maryland cities and agencies.

Conservation Area Enters State Contest

Soil Supervisors Plan Activities

The Allegany County Soil Conservation District yesterday entered the national soil conservation awards program, sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, for the second successive year, according to District Chairman Floyd Buser.

The decision was made at yesterday's meeting of the Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors in the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger.

Members of the Allegany County Soil Conservation District will compete against other soil conservation districts in the state. Non-partisan judging committees, selected from Maryland's outstanding exponents of the soil conservation movement, will determine the state's outstanding district for the period from May 1, 1958, until April 30, 1959, on the basis of total points scored in performance of regular district duties.

Grand award for one member of the winning district governing body in each of the 50 competing units and the top cooperating farmer or rancher named by that district will be an expense-free vacation trip to the Wigwam Guest Ranch, Lithfield Park, Ariz., in November or December 1959.

At yesterday's session, the soil conservation supervisors also voted to increase the rental charge on the district's rotary cutter from 50 cents to $1.25 an hour. Those renting the cutter also will be prohibited from cutting brush of greater than one inch in diameter. It is necessary to increase the rental fee in order to pay for repairs made to the cutter and to build up a reserve for the possible future purchase of a new cutter.

Martin M. Gordon, Soil Conservation Service aide, and Charles S. Harvey, one of the supervisors, reported on the convention of the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts held at Ocean City July 14, 15 and 16.

Four of the five supervisors attended yesterday's meeting along with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Mr. Steger. Supervisors on hand were Mr. Buser, Mr. Harvey, D. T. Fuffinberger and Ernest R. Slider. The only absentee was Wilbert R. Paul.

Compensation Case Appealed

The transcript of record from the Workmen's Compensation Commission was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Joseph E. Tipton, RFD 1, Frostburg, the claimant, has appealed the January 30 decision of R. Duncan Clark, who was a commissioner of the former State Industrial Accident Commission.

A carpenter's helper, Mr. Tipton contends that former Commissioner Clark did not grant him sufficient compensation for a severe back sprain he sustained February 22, 1956, while working on the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant construction. Mr. Clark ruled that Mr. Tipton sustained 20 per cent industrial loss of the use of his body and is entitled to $25 a week compensation from April 10, 1956, but to exceed $2,500.

The Consolidated Engineering Company, Inc., participated in the case as Mr. Tipton's employer and the Maryland Casualty Company as the insurer.

Mr. Tipton was injured when he slipped in the mud and fell while carrying a large board, according to the papers in the case.

Edward J. Ryan was Mr. Tipton's attorney and E. S. Ziegler of Hagerstown represented the employer and insurer.

The annual task will be intensified after August 1, when department budgets are due.

Area Forestry Session Set For Hagerstown

Production Needs Will Be Stressed

A forestry meeting to discuss ways of stepping up production of wood and fiber to meet foreseeable increased requirements for forest products in Maryland and nationally has been called jointly by County Forestry boards in Western Maryland for 10 a. m. August 6 at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts in Hagerstown, according to District Forester William H. Johnson.

Other district meetings around the state will be conducted at Ellicott City, LaPlata and Cambridge.

The Western Maryland meeting—for Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties—will be attended by forest landowners, industry representatives, state forestry officials and other interested citizens.

Discussion of Maryland's forest situation at this time is occasioned, District Forester Johnson said, by information which recently has become available from several sources as a result of factual forest inventory studies made in the state and in other states over the past several years.

These studies show current forest productivity is lagging behind current potential and will have to be accelerated to measure up to expected requirements of younger families some 20 years hence.

Maryland, because of its favorable, soil and climate is listed among the top states in forest growth potential both for quick growth of fiber for pulp or ground wood and for the long-term growth of high quality logs for lumber, veneers, furniture, poles and piling.

A survey of state conditions made in 1954 and spot checked up to date indicates that inadequate use is being made of Maryland's favorable forest growing capacity.

Potomac Park Streets Repaired

Repairs have been made to three streets in Potomac Park, County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman informed the Board of County Commissioners yesterday.

The retiring supervisor said that Avenues E, J and D in Potomac Park have been graded and crusher run stone has been placed on these streets. He cautioned the commissioners that Avenues A, B and C, on which new houses are being developed, are not included in the county road system despite some representations to the effect that they are.

Commissioner James Orr observed that he had received complaints about a number of old cars having been stored near Lindy's Restaurant on Bedford Road. He said the county was opposed to the development of any more junkyards.

County School Immunization Plan Goes On

Nurses To Continue Shot Administration

Mass immunizations in the schools against certain communicable diseases will be continued virtually unchanged under recommendations adopted by the Allegany County Board of Health.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, had proposed that mass immunizations in the schools be stopped due to the lack of physicians to supervise the program which covered polio, DPT and smallpox, and was carried out by nurses alone.

He wanted the program changed to a clinic basis.

Decisions made by the Board of Health include:

1. An educational program stressing the desirability of obtaining protection through immunization for children under 6, either from private physicians or at Health Department clinics, will be continued and intensified.

Will Give Shots

2. All persons under 20 may obtain the protection through clinics, regardless of ability to pay.

3. Children in school who have not gone to their physicians or a clinic for the protection, will be given by public health nurses assigned to the schools.

As is customary, shots will not be given unless parents sign consent slips.

James Orr, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, said sudden dropping of the program would leave large numbers of children entirely unprotected.

He also said past experience shows there is no special need to have a physician on the premises. Gorman E. Getty, county attorney, concurred.

Funds needed to continue the mass approach to communicable disease, officials said, will undoubtedly be available to carry on the program which has placed Allegany County in the front ranks of counties in the protection against polio and other communicable disease.

Full Polio Protection

All students in Allegany County public and parochial schools had received full protection against polio when schools closed this June. So far as is known, no other county even attempted such a program.

Similar full protection against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and smallpox has been provided for years.

The decisions were made Thursday at a session held in the Board of Education office, attended by Mr. Orr; Mr. Getty, attorney to the county board; Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools; Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county schools and Dr. van Strien.

It was reported that Dr. van Strien reluctantly accepted the above recommendations and asked that they be put in the minutes of the Board of Health and signed as approved by the members of the board.

The three commissioners, Orr, William A. Wilson and Charles N. Wilkinson signed the statement.

Among the newly added fiction, readers who are interested in vivid and colorful historical novels, will be delighted with "Pharaoh" by Eloise Jarvis McGraw. Brilliantly described, this is the story of Queen Hatshepsut who, after her husband's death, became the first female to wear the double crown of Pharaoh.

Another historical novel which has achieved outstanding success is "White Witch" by Elizabeth Goudge, recognized artist, veteran of some 22 well known books. Action and suspense predominate in this novel of England during the reign of Charles I and the wars between Royalists and Puritans.

Among the top national best sellers "North From Rome" by Helen MacInnes is intriguing. This new suspense novel concentrates on the activities of a powerful narcotics ring and the important Communists behind it.

Permits Issued For Two Dwellings

Building permits were issued yesterday by the Allegany County assessing department for two new dwellings.

Charles F. Witt, Creek Road, obtained a permit for a $3,500 frame dwelling on Creek Road in Election District 4. It will be 32 by 40 feet in size.

Victor Jones got a permit for a foundation and tool shed costing $900 for his house on Irons Mountain in Election District 16.

Eight Safety Rules Urged For Use Of Power Mowers

Local owners of power mowers who have noted the number of persons hurt by the machines this summer may be interested in these eight operating rules compiled by the National Safety Council:

1. Unless you have artificial light, mow only during the day-time.

2. Don't use an electric mower when the grass is wet and slippery.

3. Never allow youngsters or pets near a power mower. Nor should youngsters be allowed to operate one.

4. When starting the engine, stand with your feet planted in a safe spot. Always be sure of your footing and balance—especially when mowing on an incline. On hills and banks, cut sideways, not up and down.

Early 1958 Bond Sales Take Drop

The sale of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Allegany County for the first half of 1958 showed a drop compared to the same period last year, according to Lynn C. Lashley, chairman.

Mr. Lashley said sales from January through June amounted to $1,349,939, as compared to $1,411,552 for the same period in 1957.

For the first six months this year, Allegany County achieved 48 per cent of its yearly goal of $2,790,000 and is 12th place in sales in Maryland. The county needs $45,061 additional purchases of bonds to pass the 50 per cent mark for the full half-year period.

However, sales throughout the state were up on an average over the same period last year, with $32,120,876 in bonds purchased in the first six months of this year, as compared with $31,867,258 for the same 1957 period.

State sales of $5,189,441 for June were nearly seven per cent higher than June 1957.

In Garrett County, only 26 per cent, or $102,036, of the $380,000 quota was reached during the first six-month period.

Washington County had $1,750,234 in sales, or 54 per cent of its quota of $3,210,000, for January through June.

Library Has Edgar Hoover Book On Reds

Any reader who would like a better understanding of the Communist Party in the United States may become better informed by reading one of the new books in the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant at the library, who reviews new books at the library, reports that J. Edgar Hoover has written a clear and understandable book on our problems with the Communist Party in the United States. He works on the premise that "Communism is the major menace of our time." Much may be learned by reading "Masters of Deceit," the work of an intelligent and dedicated government official, said Miss Cain.

Among the newly added fiction, readers who are interested in vivid and colorful historical novels, will be delighted with "Pharaoh" by Eloise Jarvis McGraw. Brilliantly described, this is the story of Queen Hatshepsut who, after her husband's death, became the first female to wear the double crown of Pharaoh.

Another historical novel which has achieved outstanding success is "White Witch" by Elizabeth Goudge, recognized artist, veteran of some 22 well known books. Action and suspense predominate in this novel of England during the reign of Charles I and the wars between Royalists and Puritans.
